Bride Has Moment Of Stage Fright

Princess Weds Commoner Amid Splendor, Cheering

By EDDY GILMORE LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret today married the man of her heart—untitled Antony Armstrong-Jones—amid a fanfare of silver trumpets and a million cheers.

The bride had a moment of stage-fright in the middle of the ceremony. Within the medieval magnificence of Westminster Abbey, all went smoothly until Margaret began repeating her vows before the throng of 2,068 invited guests and millions listening on radio and watching on television.

When she came to the ancient ritual of pledging herself to Tony, she choked up for a moment.

"For better for worse," intoned the Archbishop of Canterbury.

No reply.

"For better for worse," the archbishop said again.

She then repeated the words quietly, her voice in a lower key than usual. It was part of the pledge by the bride in the Anglican wedding service:

"I, Margaret Rose, take thee Antony Charles Robert, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and to obey, till death do us part."

The groom spoke his wedding responses clearly and firmly as he knelt with Margaret before the archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, who pronounced them man and wife at exactly 11:45 a. m.

It was the first time in four centuries that the daughter of an English king had married a commoner.

Outside, a million Londoners and tourists roared cheers for the newlyweds. It was a warm, sunny day.

The scene in downtown London was one of festive magnificence—state, crown-topped poled flying silken banners and flags everywhere.

Inside the 900-year-old abbey the Child Suffers Minor Injury In Car Mishap

Student At Westgate Dashes Into Path Of Auto On W. 8th St.

An 8-year-old elementary pupil at Westgate School escaped with a minor head injury Thursday afternoon when he dashed into the path of an auto on the W. 8th St. "super - road," police said.

Michael E. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jones, 334 W. 7th St., was released after treatment at City Hospital. Police said he was bumped by the right fender of an auto operated by William H. Mills of Sunnyside Ave.

Capt. Robert H. Pyle, who investigated, termed the mishap unavoidable. He said the youngster ran across the "super - road" to join some friends on the north side, then dashed back across the four-lane highway into the path of Mills' car. The mishap was timed at 3:38 p. m.

No one was injured in three other accidents investigated by police Thursday and early today.

A 1953 two - door sedan operated by Mrs. Margaret Ann Burlingame, 19, of 911 Vine St., a student driver, bumped a parked 1957 sedan owned by Andrew Moon, 927 W. 8th St., as she made a right turn off W. 8th St. onto Van Dyne Alley at 6 p. m. Thursday, police said.

Mrs. Burlingame said she made a wide turn and could not straighten the wheels again in time to avoid the collision. There was damage.

Press Conference Set Here By Sen. Johnson

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas will hold a press conference this afternoon at 4 in Mayor Bert H. Goodballe's office — a prelude to his address to an expected 1,300 at 6:30 at a Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner at Beaver Local High School.

Announcing plans for the conference, the mayor said this morning he was asked to prepare for a crowd of 35 newspaper, radio and television newsmen, including reporters traveling with the Senate majority leader and his party. The mayor was arranging with a funeral home to supply folding chairs to help accommodate the crowd. The conference was arranged by Don Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman.

Youth's Body Recovered In Well Cave-In

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Finally getting treacherous sand cleared away after more than 27 hours, rescue workers late Thursday night recovered the body of Warren Payne, 18-year-old high school athlete buried by a well cave-in.

Warren, helping his family dig the well in the back yard of their home at Burlington, near here, was laying brick 35 feet beneath the ground when the unsupported well wall gave way near the bottom and six to eight feet of sand poured in on him.

A brother, David, working above, ran screaming for help. That was just before 5 p. m. Wednesday.

Volunteers and firemen from nearby Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky points rushed to the scene and began frantic digging operations.

But there was little hope at the outset of finding the Negro youth, one of eight children, alive.

Only one man could be lowered to work in the narrow well early in the rescue attempt. More sand sometimes slid into the well faster than it could be dug out. The work became slower and more cautious after several workers nearly became buried themselves.

Three times the victim's hand was uncovered only to be covered again by the sand.

The hand digging effort was abandoned and a clam-shell digger brought in. Professionals brought in wood and steel casement to prevent slides and the small hole grew to four times its original width.

Challenged To Take Lie Test

Won't Try Case In Papers, Barron Tells Political Foe

By The Associated Press W. W. Barron said "this case will not be tried in the newspapers" in refusing Thursday night to discuss Orel Skeen's challenge that they take lie detector tests and make the results public.

The tests were suggested by Skeen after Barron denied the matter they would have covered and instituted suit against him for $300,000 for libel and slander.

The two men have been serving together in the state government for 3 1/2 years — Skeen as treasurer, Barron as attorney general — and both are running for the Democratic nomination for governor. They fell out over allegations

Bill To Assist Needy Areas Due President

Ike Asked Congress Not To OK Measure Of $251 Million

BULLETIN WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today sent to President Eisenhower — and an apparently sure veto — a 251 million dollar bill to aid chronically distressed areas.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate prepared to send to President Eisenhower today a politically potent 251 million dollars depressed areas bill he asked Congress on Tuesday not to pass.

The House-passed figure is far below the 389 1/2 million dollars originally voted by the Senate in March last year but is still nearly five times the 53 million asked by Eisenhower.

Sponsors of the Senate bill disliked both the money cuts and a House provision requiring separate action, after Appropriations Committee consideration, to make the money available. The Senate bill would have permitted use of Treasury money without direct appropriations.

But they apparently feared that further insistence on their own terms would delay or prevent passage. Any effort at compromise with the House bill would require action by the House Rules Committee, which had held up House action on the bill until it was passed.

Leetonia Boys Admit 'Protection' Racket

LISBON — Two 17-year-old Leetonia youths were penalized Thursday by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin after a hearing in which they were charged with forcing students in Leetonia High School to pay them money for protection.

One admitted his part in the racket and was given 30 days detention and the other was found guilty of assault and fined $25 each on 3 counts.

Testimony showed that the victims were warned that if they didn't pay "the would be sorry" and one youth said he was forced to turn over his wallet containing $4. He said he got $3 back.

The youths were cited into Juvenile Court by Patrolman Allen Gibson of Leetonia.

Civil Rights Bill Signed By President

Aimed To Protect Negro Vote; Ike Says It's Historic Step

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today the 1960 civil rights bill keyed to new protection for the voting rights of Negroes.

Eisenhower called the law "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights" although Congress failed to include some of his recommendations.

"With continuing help from all responsible persons, the new law will play an important role in the days ahead in attaining our goal of equality under law in all areas of our country for all Americans," Eisenhower said.

The signing was without any extraordinary ceremony.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence Walsh came to the White House for it, but there were no other prominent persons invited.

Eisenhower used two pens in signing the bill, giving one to Rogers and the other to Walsh.

The President's statement noted that this is only the second civil rights measure passed by Congress in 85 years. He said it, like the 1957 law, was built on recommendations of the administration.

Congress passed the legislation April 21 after months of struggle, marked by one week of around-the-clock Senate sessions.

Stubbornly resisting Southerners battled the bill by every possible means. While they were unable to defeat the legislation, they squeezed out of it a number of features sought by the Eisenhower administration or by Northern Democrats—notably broad authority for the attorney general to seek injunctions in civil rights cases and a permanent commission to fight race discrimination in employment on federal contracts.

Although primarily a voting rights measure, the new law also strengthens federal authority to deal with bombers and persons who organize violent demonstrations against court orders such as those desegregating public schools.

The heart of the measure is a new procedure to help Negroes, or other minorities, fight discrimination against them at the ballot box. Teamed in this effort will be the U.S. Department of Justice, federal courts and officers of the courts called referees.

The bill provides for the attorney general to file suit, asking courts to find whether there is a pattern of discrimination against the exercise of voting rights.

After such a finding, court-appointed referees could hear complaints from persons discriminated against. If the referee found such persons qualified under state law, he could order that they be permitted to register and vote.

The new voting procedure may be tested in this fall's elections, although the law is expected to be challenged in court, delaying a showdown.

Hancock Slot Owners Told Disposal Planned

The Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the Internal Revenue Service at Wheeling has filed notice of its intention to dispose of 65 slot machines seized by agents in January in Hancock, Brooke and Ohio Counties.

The notice of the intent comes as a prelude to actual disposal. This is to inform the machine owners who can claim their machines if they desire.

An IRS official said that no one has offered the $250 cost bond necessary to start proceeding for the return of a machine. The 29 owners have until June 3 to notify the IRS whether they intend to petition for return of the gambling devices.

The machines were impounded in raids on taverns and night clubs in Chester, New Cumberland, Weirton and the Wheeling area.

Crippled Scion Of Wealthy Family

HAVANA (AP) — Harvey S. Firestone III, crippled scion of the wealthy rubber family, crawled to the balcony of his 20th floor hotel suite Thursday night and plunged to his death.

Cuban authorities ruled him a suicide. He left no note in his room.

The 30-year-old Firestone, a resident of St. Petersburg, Fla., suffered from cerebral palsy and was confined to a wheelchair. He checked into the Havana Hilton at 1:40 p. m. Thursday with his attendant and a cousin, David M. Firestone, 29, of Sarasota, Fla. They planned to stay three days.

Khrushchev Gave Shooting Order

U.S. Wants Plane Incident Kept In Diplomatic Status

WASHINGTON (AP)—First U.S. reaction to new Soviet boasts that an American plane was shot down over the Soviet Union by a "remarkable rocket" was to keep the matter in official diplomatic channels today.

The State Department press officer, Lincoln White, said there would be no immediate statement on the speech to the wildly cheering Supreme Soviet in Moscow by Marshal Andrei A. Grechko.

Grechko said it was on the personal orders of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that the American plane was destroyed "on the first shot."

Thursday when first word of the Soviet shooting of the plane came in a speech by Khrushchev, the U. S. withheld any strong protest while awaiting more information on the incident. President Eisenhower ordered a swift inquiry, but made no public comment.

White said today U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson had been instructed to ask for information in Moscow and "we'll wait for that."

Khrushchev said his government "will make a severe protest" to the United States over the alleged violation of its air space, but the communication had not been received Thursday night.

There was no official identification of the craft.

However, indications pointed to an American weather plane reported missing since Sunday. Its civilian pilot was identified as Francis G. Powers, 30, Pound

Vote Supplies Distributed For Hancock

Registration Shows 21,803 Eligible To Ballot On Tuesday

Distribution of ballots, poll books and registration records to precinct commissioners got under way this morning for Hancock County's primary Tuesday.

The necessary equipment for polling sites in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland, Pughtown and Weirton was being picked up today at the Courthouse in New Cumberland, Donald Stewart, clerk, reported.

A total of 21,803 are eligible to vote, including 13,775 Democrats and 7,988 Republicans and 40 Independents.

Highlighting the primary are races for nomination of county sheriff, assessor, prosecuting attorney and a seat in the House of Delegates. Three seats on the County Board of Education are to be filled.

Approximately 29,000 Republican ballots to be used in Hancock, Brooke and Ohio Counties will have to be altered because of the death yesterday of a candidate for judge of the 1st Judicial Circuit.

William T. Fahey, 52, of Weirton, prominent Hancock County lawyer, died suddenly in Weirton. The name of Atty. Fahey will be blanked out by election officials in polling sites in the three counties.

Polls will be open from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. (DST) in each of the county's 36 precincts. Since the

Copies Of All Istanbul Newspapers Are Seized

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Copies of all Istanbul morning newspapers were seized today by the Istanbul martial law command.

No official reason was given. There was speculation the action was taken because the papers had printed an Interior Ministry communiqué on Thursday's antigovernment student demonstrations, in Ankara in which Premier Adnan Menderes was heckled and jostled when he personally tried to disperse the demonstrators.

Harvey S. Firestone, 30, Dies In Plunge From Hotel

About 7 p. m. Harvey disappeared and his two companions called police.

Clad only in white shorts and a pajama top, his body was found on a third-floor parapet above the main entrance of the 25-story turquoise and white skyscraper in the heart of the Cuban capital's fashionable Vedado District.

Police gave this account: Firestone had been lying on a couch while his attendant, William J. Didas of St. Petersburg, Fla., was taking a shower. His cousin, David, was taking a nap in an adjoining room.

Levy For Pool Ordered For Chester Ballot

Council Authorizes Vote On 2 Mills For $70,000 Proposal

A 2-mill levy for a proposed $70,000 swimming pool in Chester was authorized for the ballot in the city's general election June 7 by Council at a meeting Thursday night.

Council voted unanimously to place the levy on the ballot after Don Chaney of the swimming pool committee presented petitions with 991 signatures requesting a bond issue levy for a pool at the City Park.

Discussion was held on whether Council could authorize a bond issue. Councilman Charles Kollog said he doubted if Council could act on such an issue because the title to the park is in the name of the Park Commission.

However, City Solicitor William Conklin said Council could enact an ordinance for the pool levy.

Councilman John Olash said Council would be criticized for enacting 2 levies in the present administration, referring to the fire truck levy of 1959.

Chaney said he would agree to submitting the levy in the general election, adding, "I would hate to see all this work done in vain."

He said 47 women volunteers canvassed the city to obtain the signatures on the petitions. "We could make this park one of the finest around here," He suggested the pool be named for the late Dr. Ralph Watkins, former commission member and civic leader.

The motion was made by Councilman John Abrams that the proposal be placed on the ballot June 7, and was seconded by Olash. All councilmen voted in favor of the move.

Chaney said the levy would be for 10 years, raising an estimated $7,000 annually. He said the pool would employ 4 persons, and the contract for construction would call for use of local labor and purchase

Kennedy Seen 'In' If He Wins West Virginia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon expects the presidential campaign to get under way immediately if Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) wins the West Virginia primary.

Nixon has told friends he thinks Kennedy will have the Democratic nomination in the bag if the Massachusetts senator beats Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) in the May 10 balloting in a state where the voters are overwhelmingly Protestant.

Kennedy is a Roman Catholic and the religious issue has become a major one in West Virginia. He is making no advance claim to victory in that state. He said Thursday he thinks he'll be lucky if he gets 40 per cent of the West Virginia vote.

In Nixon's view, victory would put Kennedy in about the same position in the Democratic party that Nixon now occupies as the prospective Republican presidential nominee.

With that in mind, it would be Nixon's disposition to treat Kennedy as his certain November rival and to begin making plans for the general election campaign on that basis.

On the other hand, if Kennedy fails to top Humphrey in West Virginia, Nixon thinks Adlai E. Stevenson may win the prize at the Los Angeles convention.

Hard Rains Come After 'Twisters'

11 Counted Dead In College Town In Wilburton, Okla.

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP)—Ugly black tornadoes killed 25 persons and injured an estimated 200 in slashing attacks on eastern Oklahoma Thursday night.

Torrential rains followed the twisters and hampered rescue efforts. Most of the affected areas were without power and communications.

Eleven victims were counted in this college town and officials feared they would find more bodies under the rubble today. The best estimate of injured, taken to hospitals in several towns, was about 75.

The reported toll in the other tornadoes was five dead and 16 injured in the Moffet-Roland area next to the Arkansas border near Fort Smith, three killed and six hurt near Keota, two killed and possibly 7 hurt at Sapulpa, two deaths in rural areas near Sallisaw and Checotah, two dead and 12 injured near Bristow, and 13 hurt in the Hoffman community near Henryetta.

Of the 11 persons killed in Wilburton, 5 died and scores were injured in the Calvary Baptist church. Some 57 members had gathered there for a church supper honoring students at Eastern A&M College here.

Darkness, rain and lack of power and communications hampered search efforts during the night and early morning.

Eighteen blocks of the downtown and east side residential areas were smashed and battered. Most of the brick and masonry buildings stood, but minus glass.

The college, on the west side of town, escaped damage.

Dr. G. R. Booth said he saw the twister form in the valley below this town of 1,900.

Biggest town hit by the twisters was Sapulpa, an industrial city of 15,000 just southwest of Tulsa.

Arkansas Tornado

Kills Woman, Hurts 20

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP)—A tornado today smashed the small community of Menifee, near Morrilton, killing one woman and injuring at least 20 other persons.

Sheriff Marlin Hawkins said the twister destroyed a dozen houses, two churches and the post office in Menifee.

Hawkins directed rescue efforts of police and Civil Defense workers. He said the tornado left just about everything in splinters. Menifee is a town of 150.

The sheriff said most of the injured were hospitalized at Morrilton. He identified the dead woman as Ora Oliver, 70, a Negress.

Hawkins said the twister struck about 1 a. m.

Strike Of Gas Staffs Spreads

Locals In Wheeling Area Join Walkout

Striking gas workers in Eastern Ohio, Western Pennsylvania and the Northern Panhandle were joined Thursday by some 155 employees of the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. and the Ohio Valley Gas Co., who walked off the job in the Wheeling area after negotiations for a new contract broke down.

The striking employees are members of Local 420, Utility Workers of America, on the West Virginia side, and Local 436, UAW in Eastern Ohio. Yesterday's walkouts also affected Moundsville and New Martinsville.

The latest walkouts have extended the strike zone from Pittsburgh to New Martinsville in cities along the Ohio River. An estimated 1,000 maintenance men, inspectors and meter readers are on strike in a new contract dispute.

Manufacturers and Ohio Valley were struck earlier this week in Steubenville, East Liverpool.

Wedding

smell of musk, old stone and wood mingled with the fragrance of spring flowers and french perfume. Polished trumpets gleamed. The scarlet and gold vestments of the clergy added color. But most colorful of all was the bride.

A wide diamond tiara blazed on her head. Her gown was of white silk organza—untrimmed, high-necked, long-sleeved and full-skirted. A high chignon added inches to her 5 foot 2. A veil of white illusion tulle sprang from each side of her head above the ears, pulled back at the shoulders and falling to the floor.

When the bride choked up, it was the only hitch in a wedding of truly fairytale splendor. It was like the turning of a page of history.

Shortly before the princess rode in a glass coach to Westminster Abbey today she spoke to the Queen Mother of hers and Tony's love, saying:

"Never have two people been so much in love."

And the light of love was in her eyes as she took her measured steps along the long blue carpet spread down the central vastness of the abbey.

Prince Philip, her brother-in-law, was beside her. Cherry-cheeked, she was the picture of a beautiful bride.

Her sparkling white dress—its veil spread out behind her like light spray in the sunshine—set off her beauty.

Armstrong-Jones with his best man, Dr. Roger Gilliat, was waiting for his princess. He sat on the ground floor level of the abbey, actually laughing and even joking until the moment Margaret arrived.

Then he became serious but as Margaret reached him he flashed her a winning smile.

She smiled back. Stepping to her side, Tony walked with her, up the short flight of steps to the pink-cushioned kneeling benches.

Margaret's back was now to the star-studded audience, including her sister, Queen Elizabeth II.

Dressed in his golden and white mitre and cope, the archbishop asked Tony:

"Antony Charles Robert, will thou have this woman to thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy state of matrimony?"

In the great abbey, the Archbishop's usually deep, booming voice was almost lost.

"Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor, and keep her, in sickness and in health, and forsaking all other, keep thee only unto her, so long as ye both shall live?"

Tony's "I will" came on top of the archbishop's last word.

Although microphones dangled above the high altar, her first words went almost unheard. Her voice was stronger, however, when she and Tony clasped right hands.

Just after this she blew her line and hesitated.

As they knelt before the archbishop, a slight tremble seemed to shake her veil.

As a princess marrying a commoner, she might have been excused if she stammered in vowing to "obey him and serve him."

But she negotiated that beautifully.

Tony's voice was warm as he repeated:

"With this ring I thee wed..." Margaret flashed him a quick smile.

"To those whom God hath joined together," said the archbishop, "let no man put asunder."

His words, the trumpet fanfares and the words of the Christian ritual all were heard by the crowd of a million outside.

As the newlyweds emerged from the abbey, the throngs broke into roaring cheers which brought smiles to the faces of the 29-year-old bride and her 30-year-old husband. So jammed were the crowds that ambulance squads reported 257 casualties, including 171 fainting cases.

In the glass coach, which the groom entered first after a whispered consultation with the bride, they returned to Buckingham Palace for a champagne wedding breakfast and to prepare for departure on their Caribbean honeymoon aboard the yacht Britannia.

Some of the crowd broke through police lines and surged against the high iron railings in front of the palace. From thousands of throats came the cry, "We want Margaret."

When the couple came out on a balcony, another volley of cheers rose from the square below.

She was carrying her bridal bouquet. She turned to speak to her husband, then with a brilliant smile waved to the crowd.

Frantic cheers followed. Handkerchiefs and programs waved.

Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother Elizabeth, Prince Philip, Princess Anne, Prince Charles and other members of the royal family were with the bridal pair on the balcony.

Again and again, Margaret raised her hand to return the crowd's salute. The eight little bridesmaids—Anne was one of them—clustered around her.

Armstrong-Jones also waved from time to time.

They stayed on the balcony four minutes.

The din of cheers at the palace contrasted with the silence outside the huge abbey during the wedding ceremony, as the crowds listened on portable radios and loud-speakers fixed to the palace gates. TV carried the ceremony to all Britain and to European nations as well.

The soaring pillars of the 900-year-old abbey blazed with flowers in a scene of medieval magnificence.

Fanfares on silver trumpets greeted the bride and announced her departure into the cheers and sunshine through the great west door.

One American in four has this disease

Physicians call it obesity, but it's just as unhealthy if we call it pounds—too many pounds. In some places a chief cause of early death is malnutrition but in this country the Grim Reaper's number one helper is overeating. Overweight people subject their heart and blood vessels to undue stresses and strains. Every ounce of excess flesh is a menace to health. Which is why so many of us diet today. And those of us who are wise see a physician first. We, as professional pharmacists, know how effective a doctor's advice can be.

'The Old Man' Should Do Something

When we read of drivers in the 16-year-old age group being involved in an auto accident, we see red.

Not so much because of the youngsters, but because of the parents who supply them with the means of doing bodily harm to themselves and others.

Youngsters of this age — regardless of their personal viewpoints — in most cases aren't capable of operating a motor vehicle with the judgment necessary for proper safety. The records will substantiate this.

There's little excuse for a parent's failure to recognize the dangers. Week after week the Review carries stories of accidents which fall within this scope.

It's all right to be good to your children and afford them every possible advantage in life, but you're not being good when you provide an instrument which could mean his or her death or some else's death. There are occasions when use of a car by those in the 16-year age category could be justified. But they are few and far between.

In most cases when accidents occur, the average teen-age driver makes light of the thing, shrugging it off with the feeling that "the old man will take care of it."

It's time the "old man did take care of it" — not by paying for the damage which results from a wreck, but by reducing the number of such wrecks by limiting the use of the family car to the younger set.

A change in state law, raising the age when a youngster may obtain a driver's license, would help make things easier for the parent.

The Committee Juggles The Lineup

It's always news in the United States when the top echelon of the Communist party in the Soviet Union is changed. But unlike former times when each new juggling of the lineup seemed an effort to conceal weakness, the juggling now seems to improve efficiency. The newest change, which puts Prol R. Kozlov, the personally deputy premier who visited this country last summer, into the top position of the Communist party and switches the responsibilities of another half dozen key Communists, is clearly no confession of weakness.

This is the way a monolithic state adjusts itself to change — by decisions at the top of the monolith. It is the authoritarian equivalent of elections in countries where the people instead of the politicians decide who shall hold office. It is the Soviet Union's concession to the necessity of organizational change.

One characteristic cannot be looked at too closely by Americans trying to understand the difference between their concept of government and the Communist concept. All change in Russia is in the form of edict from the Communist party, which is, in fact, the Russian government.

There are no contrary opinions, no issues, no contests. A handful of people whose success at political survival has marked them for high political destiny make and break all individuals ambitious for high office. All party decisions are irrevocable. A man can be assassinated, buried alive in an outpost, cast into civil nothingness, or be elevated to the premiership by a process that makes the traditional "smoke-filled room" of U.S. politics look like a New England town meeting.

This committee dictatorship is challenging popular government. Currently it appears to be working well. But before Stalin's death in 1953, no one believed it could work at all; after his death it looked as shaky as the skeptics feared it would look, until Nikita Khrushchev asserted enough personal strength to fill the vacuum of authority.

Now it's Khrushchev's own ultimate departure from power that raises the question of succession. The heir-apparent seems to be Kozlov, but he too will have to prove he knows how to survive in a system that has no fixed rules, only the behavior patterns of the ruthless men at its core.

No Royalty, But Plenty To Discuss

Britain has been set on its ear by the marriage of Princess Margaret and the photographer, with every loyal subject of the realm taking a proprietary interest in the proceedings. It always makes the absence of royalty seem easier to bear when our cousins get into fervid discussion of the behavior of their beloved monarchy. The Windsors have no privacy.

There is plenty to discuss here, too, even though royalty is blessedly and legally absent. Rare is the day when a loyal citizen of the United States cannot wonder about something in connection with the matings, mismatings and dematings of newsworthy persons.

It gets to be fascinating in cases like the mismating of Lucy and Desi, which has been flitting with front pages for a long time and finally made them. Here was a show business marriage that made millions feel sure there could be moments of light laughter without half trying. Here was the American image of connubialism, with settings by so-and-so, costumes by so-and-so, hair styling by so-and-so and so on ad infinitum.

Here were the friendly neighbors, the automatic reconciliation, the baby in the crib, problems galore, the healing peal of laughter, confusion twice confounded and ultimately resolved into happy reminiscences to brighten old age.

Millions were grateful to Lucy and Desi for demonstrating that the sugar-coating went all the way through the pill. All was well that ended well . . . well . . .

It has ended, not well. The tapes and cinemascope of those hilarities, if they show up again, will look and sound odd after Lucy's testimony that the whole thing had been a "nightmare" for the last three years. The divorce has been granted. It's all over.

Say it ain't so, Lucy and Desi. It seemed so plausible at the time. There are a million husbands and wives who will not know what to think now that laughter has fled and the illusion of hilarity has been shattered.

Shimmer In The Web

May goes too fast.

Lilacs are here before tulips are gone, and roses and peonies will crowd in before the last daffodils have faded.

Lawns and meadows that lay inert for months last winter now change appearance day by day and hour by hour. Fruit trees bloom overnight. Bare landscapes are decorated between dawn and dark by festoons of new leaves.

It is time to open the windows for summer before the snow shovel has been stored away. The skeleton of last Christmas's tree lies in a patch of bright dandelions, and wild morning glories twine in the pickets of a snow fence no one has had time to take down.

The Once Over

British member of Parliament declares Americans are dependent on pills. He has been checking on TV programs. The impression is justified.

Any outsider must feel certain that the medicine cabinet is the backbone of American living and that life here is one capsule after another.

Strangers may have swallowed image of the vigorous rugged Americans who bit nails, tore up phone books and felt off form only when losing a tough one against the Sioux Indians.

The history of the country gives no indication of Americans who survived through vitamins, toothpastes, headache remedies, breath purifiers, laxatives and bath soaps. (If he had no arrows in him he felt good.)

But the airwaves project picture of him as a pale, sickly, fearful physical wreck who is never happy when short of medicines.

Presidential state of Union message indicating the country is in good shape is followed by, "Go to your druggist now and get these pills before it is too late."

The telecasts of the battles between rugged athletes glorifying "vigor vim and perfect trim" are interrupted by a loud, "Four out of five doctors recommend, etc."

In the midst of stirring films in which red-blooded Americans stop a buffalo stampede, lick the Pawnees and brush off fire and flood the audience is told, "Yes, when you feel low there is nothing like this remarkable ten-way aid to the rundown human system."

A nerve tingling sea battle in "Victory at Sea" has to be stopped every few minutes for another map showing the thrumway taken by an anti-aircraft tablet.

If "Samson and Delilah" reaches the airwaves, the big scene where he pulls down the temple pillars will have a before-and-after sales pitch for medical supplies "which alone provide physical fitness."

The British Parliament is justly disturbed. As a partner in the global crisis we look sick, sick, sick.

AUTHORS OF THE BOOK on New York governments rate LaGuardia the best mayor. Best or not, Fiorello was the only burghomast who was part dynamo, part crusader, part ham actor, part comedian and part one-man circus. (They took the statue of Civic Virtue out of City Hall Park so Fiorello wouldn't give it unfair competition.)

We wonder how the woman hiking from California to New York reacts to a "Don't Walk" sign?

Elephants are reported fond of tobacco. Their trunks constitute perfect filter tip.

Elvis Presley is getting more money for one TV show than Ike gets as President of the United States. Oh, well, Ike puts body into it only on a golf course and squirms in public only when Harry Truman is mentioned.

During the present year of 1960, the United States plans to launch about 15 satellites and space probes, and 100 sounding rockets.

Will He Walk Or Ride?

Union Report Hits Labor Probe

By Victor Riesel

On the afternoon of April 12 in the gay grand ballroom of the lush Americana Hotel on Florida's gold coast 1,000 protectors of the proletariat cheered an attack on the Senate racket-busting committee. The fervent tumult came from the vanguard of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

They were tumbling the Bal Harbour air in approval of the officers' report to their convention — a document which not only had not the slightest good thing to say about the work of Sen. McClellan and his crusading counsel, Robert Kennedy, but which charged:

"History will reveal that this inquiry was the planned scheme of big business to harm and scandalize the working man and to keep him in subjection."

"Nevertheless, some very small part of this harm brushed off onto isolated segments of our international."

NOW THERE IS only one thing left. Some committee should subpoena Brother Lewis Carroll and question him closely about his scripping of "Alice n Wonderland."

It could turn out he cribbed it from the men who wrote the above sentences into the officers' report to the Engineers 26th convention.

Here is a union which, until two years ago, was run by a multi-millionaire to whose defense in 1958 have come the toughest of the Chicago mob, according to the Senate documents.

That man is William Maloney. He is now the $55,000 a year president emeritus of the union whose 302,000 members are among the decent hardworking American Joes without whom this nation could not expand or defend itself.

After considering all the evidence, the Senate Select Committee had this to say of Maloney:

"The union has spent almost a third of its 62 years under the firm and powerful thumb of William E. Maloney."

"Out of the testimony of union witnesses and documents submitted by committee staff members . . . came a clear cut delineation of a man thoroughly steeped in autocratic concepts — one who has flouted every legality in his roughshod ride to power and who, having got there, consistently sacrificed IUOE interests on the altar of his own abundant appetites, treating the union treasury as his own private Fort Knox and winking at contract violations by employers with whom he had gainful side dealings."

Even Khrushchev's brutal crack

INSTEAD of thanking the McClellan committee for releasing the Operating Engineers from bondage so its new president Joe Delaney, could try and clean it up the officers charge eight U.S. senators with conspiring to turn labor over to some mysterious business plotters. And then the officers' report says of Maloney's resignation:

"Brother Maloney had two choices — being a martyr to the office of general president of the international union (because of ill health) — or retiring, conserving his health and containing his invaluable services by sagacious counsel and observation."

Maloney resigned on Feb. 6, 1958, and has been lending his sagacious counsel to the union at the rate of over $1100 a week. Now, don't think that the union's leaders aren't thankful for this out-rate sagacity. Here's what the report says:

"A great leader took leave of his great office after 18 years at the wheel. His ship had come safely into port. Aboard it was the deep sense of appreciation and thanks of the membership whom he had piloted through seas, both rough and calm."

And a nice ship it was too. It cost the union $35,000. But it was only 47 foot long. They called it the "Half-Moon" and it was supposed to be used for inspection of big construction jobs — in Kansas, I suppose.

I'm telling you someone ought to subpoena Lewis Carroll and ask him about this bit of "jabberwocky."

So What's New?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Premier Nikita Khrushchev has poured a dose of cold water on any optimism that the summit meeting in Paris 10 days from now may accomplish something.

But that's what the Western leaders have been doing for weeks anyway. There have been two extraordinary features about the Western preparations for the summit, preparations which began last September:

1. They haven't produced a new idea to hit the Soviets with.

2. They are rooted in a let's stand still and see what happens attitude.

Khrushchev has never given up on the demands he started making in November 1958: That the West get its troops out of West Berlin; and that it sign separate peace treaties with West and Communist East Germany.

The West refuses to do either. And recently Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon made a speech saying the West wouldn't budge. It wasn't new. The Western leaders had already said that much.

But Dillon made it sound, for whatever his reason, very fiery. It wasn't really very fiery for down further, in the fine print, Dillon said the West would be glad to settle for just not rocking the boat awhile.

When you put these various Western positions and statements together it's easy to understand — particularly if you're Soviet — why Khrushchev blasted the West in a speech Thursday.

It's almost as if he were saying: "What do you think I am, a patsy?"

He did something else, too. He laid the groundwork for blaming the West, in the eyes of the rest of the world, if the summit is a failure.

Even Khrushchev's brutal crack

Great Truths

By David Lawrence

Quiet Funeral Reveals Fundamental Issue

The day of a Washington correspondent is not always the same. It requires no event of national or international significance to teach a lesson.

For, as Thomas Gray wrote in his famous elegy, truth often is to be found "far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife."

It took the greater part of the day to get David Lawrence there and back—to a little church in the hills of Virginia where were gathered the family and friends of Jim Taylor, a Negro who died last Friday at the age of 74.

Until retirement two years ago, he had worked for 15 years on the farm where this writer lives in Virginia. To the outside world this fine man may be like millions of others—a good Christian whose kindness of nature and simple ways earned for him the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

As the eulogies were spoken by the two Baptist preachers, who took turns explaining to the anguished wife and children what the passing meant, there came to mind a contrast.

Only the day before, a man was put to death in a gas chamber in California. Around the world the editorials denounced America and our system of justice. British newspapers particularly complained with a scathing bitterness that America had been inhumane.

There came to mind, too, the "inhuman penalty" paid over the past 12 years by the 17-year-old girl sexually assaulted by Carl Chessman. She still is in a mental institution and may spend the rest of her life there.

THE SIMPLE WORDS of the preachers in the Virginia church expressed nobly the facts of life and death as they concerned a good man, a useful man, a conscientious and honest worker. But the Jim Taylors never make the headlines.

One preacher told what it meant to be a Christian. He said he was riding in his car the other day when he noticed someone beckoning on the side of the road.

He stopped and found an auto in need of a tow. Though headed in another direction, he helped out, and a half-hour later, on his way back to his original destination, a tire on his own car went flat. He also sought help on the lonely highway and someone came to his aid.

This, he pointed out, was God's way of recompense to those who perform good deeds in his name.

What impressed this writer was the naturalness and sincerity of the service. Messages of sympathy from friends were read aloud. Spiritual hymns were sung.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

Every springtime I write "anemones" sooner or later, and every springtime a kind proofreader points out to me that I'd do well to stick to "buttercups," because I always spell the name of the other flowers "anemones."

Scientific studies confirm what thousands of us survivors have been sure of for a long time—that drivers who do crazy, reckless things in automobiles are impelled by an impulse to destroy themselves and us. They're sick in the head.

Nothing springs more eternal than my hope of raising beautiful flowers from tiny seeds in pretty little envelopes. Each year I read where it says for best results the things should be planted indoors and transplanted outdoors later—yet each year I dream of getting results by planting them outside, though this never has been successful.

One of the reasons I am happy about our system of government is the frequency of upsets at the polls. This strikes me as a sure guarantee against oppression, because even chance and accident can pull the rug from under would-be oppressors.

After living in the stillness of the country for many years, I am unable to go to sleep in any place where the noise of street traffic can be heard and would have to invest in ear plugs if I planned to be away from home more than three nights in a row.

It never fails to set me back on my heels when people I have known and liked for many years give vent to wild opinions about public affairs that I associate with people who would like to hang me up by the thumbs for disagreeing with them.

It is my dismal conviction after watching public planning that there is more long-range logic in trial-and-error planlessness than in the short-range rationale of people who do public planning.

I think millions who wear glasses are in a mood to accept a new style of frame in place of the too-long continued heavy frames, which never made any sense. Light frames do make sense, and I would be a potential customer if they came back in style.

The Chessman affair turned out to be as dismal as they came, because in the showdown the guy had to be executed to prove that Cali-

Readings from the scriptures were explained with interpolations that everyone could understand. It was more than an hour of intimate and informal contact between the pulpit and the mourners—something this writer had never before witnessed.

THERE WERE perhaps 40 persons in the little church. I asked a southern senator on Capitol Hill whether in the South attendance by white persons at such services was frequent. He said it often happened and that there was a deeper feeling of friendship for individual Negroes than might be generally supposed from reading the emotional outbursts in the North in recent months about the segregation controversy.

What really is this friendly feeling for the Negro? As one reads the intemperate comments about "racism," there comes the disheartening feeling that many things are said in anger that are regrettable. For the true southerner does care about the Negro.

Talking with many people from the South, one finds that they have throughout their lives felt closer to individual Negroes than is generally believed.

It is true that this is sometimes scorned as a "master-and-servant" relationship. But the deep-seated feeling, the willingness to help when sickness and trouble come, the benevolence that reaches out long after the worker has gone to another city or to another task—this could hardly be predicated alone on a "master-and-servant" concept.

THE OTHER DAY, when news came of Jim Taylor's death, a white lady in the neighborhood, who had known him for years, burst into tears. I watched her cry. She had been born and raised in the South.

Human friendship knows no color line. Those who are striving to see reason rather than emotion applied to the maintenance of social customs and individual rights and ways of living have never allowed their feeling for persons of a different race to be marred by the exhibitionists who want to repeal the normal laws of association and thus unwittingly bring about more instead of less friction.

The epitaph of Jim Taylor in this country churchyard, as Gray wrote, may, "improve the passing tribute of a sigh," and could be inscribed in these words:

"Here rests his head upon the lap of earth
"A man to fortune and to fame unknown;
"Fair science frown'd not on his humble birth,
"And friendship mark'd him for her own. . . .
"He gave to misery all he had, a tear,
"He gained from heav'n ('twas all he wish'd) a friend."

Letter To Editor

It is time that the people of East Liverpool and surrounding territories knew some of the facts.

The employees of the Ohio Valley Gas Co., subsidiary of the Columbia Gas System, the Ohio Valley or Ohio Fuel Gas Co., received a 12 per cent increase in gas rates from the Public Utility Commission out of recent data.

The public is compelled to pay this hike in gas rates, but the gas company will not consider giving a raise to their employees in any shape or form.

I believe the employees are entitled to some consideration, as living costs have risen to their highest peak.

Pottery workers and mill workers can see by this why Ohio Valley Gas Co. workers are asking for a contract, with part of a 12 per cent increase given to the Valley Gas Co. by the Utility Commission, but nothing being offered to their employees.

All the employees want is a fair and just adjustment. We would also like the unions of the surrounding territories to respect our picket lines.

what's new at Olsen's

"Gifts For Mother . . ."

"Ollie Olsen"

Make Mothers eyes sparkle with a gift she can wear. Cool summer cottons, Bernbergs, sheers and nylon mesh. She'll love the new details on this season's dresses. Feminine and flattering—Dresses for every figure. So delicate and dainty. No wonder they make you feel young and gay. So much dress for your fashion dollar. All designed to take you right thru the summer.

Olsen's dress department just received a new shipment of nationally advertised "Kay Windsor" dresses. These dresses are designed for the woman who knows style, yet, wants plenty of comfort for the hot, humid days ahead. Our favorite is a sleeveless print shirt dress, with a full skirt buttoned down the front to the hem. The print is very unusual, a combination of clear stripes. Of course it is a drip-dry cotton blend—just wash and hang to dry. No ironing needed. So why not dash right down and see this collection of "Kay Windsor" . . . there are several more styles to select from and they are only $10.79 in sizes 10-18.

Have you even seen flowers growing under glass? Not really flowers and not real glass either. But real enough looking to even baffle the butterflies. Olsen's just received a new shipment of these beautiful handbags for your last minute shopping for Mother. Colorful bouquets of flowers on white or natural backgrounds, covered with crystal clear washable vinyl plastic. Easy to sponge clean—always fresh—Mom will carry hers all summer long—and they are only $2.88. You might want to give her a beautiful pair of white gloves to tuck in her handbag. Fashioned of pure white nylon, to be worn with her cottons too. Sizes 6-9½. Easy to care for, just dip and drip dry, always sparkling white . . . only 94c.

Mother loves the comfort of Burlington support hose, because a h e knows these are full fashioned nylons with an elastic quality that lifts and supports leg muscles as she speeds thru her busy day. Best of all they outlast regular nylon stockings 14 to one. No bulky elastic look, just nylon that washes and dries in a wink—and in proportion sizes too—Small, average and tall. These are truly the fashionable answer to leg fatigue. Moms love them for the comfort she gets as well as the savings on regular nylons; one pair can be worn daily for as long as six months, so she knows the savings when one pair cost only $4.95.

Sons—Dads—Daughters—are you wondering what to give Mom on this, her big day? Why not a beautifully engraved gift certificate. Whether its small or large, she is sure to appreciate it, then she can buy what she really wants.

Maybe she would like a dress, then again she might prefer a pretty summer duster or a pretty nightgown. You just never know what some Moms do want. By giving her a gift certificate she can shop any place in the store when it is convenient for her. Relieves you of the worry about size, color, or fit. Let her select her very own gift later. Which reminds us that Olsen's are open every night until 9 o'clock. So come in and browse around and make your shopping hours a pleasure.

Have a happy celebration with Mom—that's all today—see you next Friday.

The Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said Martha E. Stewart of Pittsburgh, driver of the car, and an unidentified woman passenger, are in "poor condition" at St. Clair Memorial Hospital in Mt. Lebanon.

Dana Deasey, son of Mrs. William Whiteham, 227 Wells Ave., was treated for an abrasion of the left knee and X-rays were taken of his hip.

Police had no report of the accident but the family said the mishap occurred about 5 p. m. in an alley at the rear of the American Legion home.

The youth was riding his bicycle and the car was operated by William J. Cox, 207 W. 7th St., East Liverpool, the family said.

Police said an accident at 1:30 a. m. today at 17th and Main Sts. involved cars operated by Paul Capohetti of Follansbee and Herman L. Williams of Cleveland.

Police said the mishap occurred at one of the city's three new traffic signals, which halt all traffic for seven seconds on a red light before one side changes to green.

"The people of the state have a right to know the truth about the matter before primary election day," Skeen said yesterday in calling for the lie detector tests.

At Williamson, where he was campaigning, Barron was asked whether he wished to say anything. He mentioned the suit first, then continued:

"I intend to pursue this matter to a judgment and I intend to collect the judgment. This case will not be tried in the newspapers. It will be tried in a court of competent jurisdiction."

He next was asked if he would make a direct reference to the tests challenge.

"No, I feel this statement is answer enough," he answered.

Strike

Weirton, Chester, and nearly all of Western Pennsylvania including Pittsburgh.

The walkouts came after the contract expired last Saturday midnight. Picket lines remain today at plants of both utilities.

W. F. Smiley, information director of Ohio Valley Gas, which serves Steubenville and East Liverpool, said the strike situation remains unchanged today. The president of the East Liverpool local, William Bleigh, said he had received no word from a federal mediator who has been asked to enter negotiations.

In East Liverpool, pickets are marching from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. in front of the gas office W. 6th St. Pickets work in 24-hour shifts at the warehouse entrance in Smith St.

Thirty-six union employees are idle in East Liverpool, and 52 are off the job in Steubenville.

Supervisory employees of the two gas utilities are handling company operations. Gas service continues normal for customers in the Ohio Valley.

Manufacturers Rates Increased In Hancock

Higher rates went into effect Thursday for customers of Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. and Hope Natural Gas Co.

For Manufacturers 49,000 customers, including those in Hancock County, the increase amounts to $253,423 a year, or 1.64 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas.

Hope now is charging 1.45 cents more per 1,000 cubic feet, to bring in $565,260 more a year from its 92,000 customers elsewhere in West Virginia.

For both utilities the new rates are meant to cover higher costs to them of their wholesale natural gas, it was announced at Charleston.

Gas Workers Ask IBOP To Honor Pickets

Striking employees of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. have asked members of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters to honor picket lines thrown up in front of the utility's office on W. 6th St., the IBOP said today.

1st Aspirants List Expenses

Another mountain of paper work is piling up for the County Election Board, as the first candidates file the required sworn statements of their receipts and expenditures in connection with the primary elections Tuesday.

All candidates already have received blank forms on which to submit the reports, along with a letter explaining procedure, Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, said today. The deadline for the reports is June 17 at 4 p. m.

The reports are required of all persons whose names appeared on the ballots Tuesday, as well as from committees that supported or opposed any candidate or issue.

Failure to file a sworn statement before the deadline disqualifies the candidate from becoming a candidate in any election in the next five years, O'Hanlon pointed out. The stringent provision was added to state law a few years ago to insure better compliance with the reporting provision. Receipted invoices must be enclosed for any item in excess of $25, O'Hanlon pointed out.

The reports are required under the "corrupt practices act," which puts a ceiling on campaign spending.

Meanwhile, the Election Board is continuing work today on the official canvass of returns from the primaries. The job began Thursday morning, O'Hanlon said. There is a possibility the official canvass may be completed tomorrow, he said, although the work may continue until Monday.

Car And Home Hit By Thieves

Theft of $47 from a home and looting of a parked auto are under investigation today by East Liverpool police.

Miss Ruth Cartwright, occupant of an apartment at 406 Washington St., told police a thief entered her rooms Thursday afternoon and removed a small purse from her pocketbook. The purse contained $45 in currency and $2 in silver, she said.

Carl Householder, 300 10th St., Wellsville, told police at 8:55 this morning that a sport coat and 2 pairs of trousers were stolen from his auto between 11:30 a. m. and 6:45 p. m. Meanwhile, police learned that a water meter reported stolen Wednesday from a vacant Claiborne St. home actually was removed for repair by the water department. Rites In North Canton Unite Helen Jones And Carl Zeno

Miss Helen M. Jones wore the bridegroom's gift of an originally designed cameo imported from Italy when she became the bride of Carl A. Zeno on April 23 at St. Paul's Catholic Church of North Canton.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jones, 422 W. 7th St., and her husband is the son of Mrs. Morris Simile of Canton and Carl F. Zeno of Massillon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an intermission-length, silk-taffeta sheath with a scoop neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. The gown and contour hand at the waist, which fastened the chapel train, were embroidered with seed pearls designed on lace appliques. A self-fabric rose of silk taffeta secured the butterfly veil of silk illusion, designed by an aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Francis. She carried a bouquet formed of three white gladioli tied with white silk-tasseled cord.

Council Hears Complaint

Chester Mothers Request Curfew

A proposed curfew for young people in Chester and the city's street program came up for discussion between Council and visiting delegations at a meeting Thursday night.

Mrs. Violet Strosnider of 2nd St. served as spokesman for a group of 8 women asking enactment of a curfew ordinance.

City Solicitor William Conklin reported a curfew ordinance was prepared about four years ago but was not introduced in Council. Councilman John Olash declared he would favor such an ordinance "if it is enforced."

WILLIAM PAOLISSO of Weirton, Hancock County Juvenile officer, pointed out it is difficult to keep boys and girls off the streets due to school and private functions.

"However," he said, "a curfew is good to curb 'roamers' who are on the streets at 1 and 2 a. m." He said police officers usually recognize the young people and use discretion in enforcing a curfew ordinance.

The ordinance committee is to meet with Conklin to prepare a measure, establishing an age limit and curfew time.

A delegation from Meadowcrest asked that "something be done about the holes in the streets and dust conditions."

JOHN DUFFY, former mayor, told Council 35 residents of the area have city driver's licenses, "but never have received a nickel's worth of work on the streets, and referred to the 'poor job' of blacktopping done recently on 5th St.

Councilman James Waggle told the group, "We do not have the money to do everything necessary. The only way we can have good streets is to pay for them."

Waggle referred to a new concrete street on 3rd Ave., New Cumberland, which cost the property owners $11 a foot — "but it will last forever." He said many other towns assess householders for street improvements.

Waggle pointed out $3,200 was received last year from the city driver's license, while $14,000 was spent for street improvement.

JAMES WALLACE of Indiana Ave. said many people complain about the $2 driver license, "but you never hear businessmen and professional men complain about the fees of $10 to $100 they pay for licenses."

Olash suggested the street department provide some temporary aid until the next fiscal year, starting July 1, when the streets in Meadowcrest could be scheduled in the improvement program. Council authorized scraping and oiling of streets there.

Waggle, who served as clerk in the absence of Roy Cashdollar, read a letter from A. R. Todd of Todd Associates, a Wheeling engineering firm, reminding Council that application for federal aid for the city's proposed sewage disposal plant should be filed by June 1.

Mayor Burton Ward said he will call a meeting of the Sanitary Board and Council next week to prepare the application.

COUNCILMAN Charles Koloy reported a traffic signal at 3rd and Virginia Ave. is out of commission, and there are no funds available for repairs. Council authorized four stop signs erected at the intersection until repairs are made.

Council also ordered no parking signs erected at the Smoot Garage on W. Carolina Ave. following a complaint of Robert Ryan of W. Carolina Ave. that his driveway has been blocked by parked vehicles.

Richard E. Jackson, attorney-advisor for the Pittsburgh District U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, explained flowage easement contracts for city-owned property along the Ohio River at the 1st St. and upper pumping stations.

He said the government will pay $50 each for the easements at the sites which will be covered by the river somewhat when the pool level rises some 7 feet after completion of the Stratton super-dam.

JACKSON said the government could condemn the property, but desires to negotiate and provide compensation. The general fee is $100 an acre. The land involved at 1st St. is about two-tenths of an acre and at the upper pump house about a third of an acre.

Federal funds are to be used in construction of a retaining wall at the upper pumping station to protect the station when the river rises.

Council officially commended Patrolman Clarence Lennens for his work since becoming a regular officer. Councilman Koloy said Police Chief Harold Davis is also doing "a good job."

Councilman Walter McSwegin commended residents of 6th St. and the water works department for clearing 6th St. recently.

School Budget Asks $480,558

A tentative budget of $480,558 for the coming year of the Western Beaver County School District was announced Thursday as adopted during a Board of Education meeting Monday evening.

The budget is $38,000 higher than last year's and means an increase of anticipated revenue still is under consideration of the whole board acting as a committee.

A special meeting will be held this month to study the budget and sources of revenue.

The budget includes expenses of general control, $24,000; instruction, $290,885; auxiliary, $57,400; operation of school plant, $27,810; maintenance, $3,750; fixed charges, $12,500; debt service, $61,558, and capital outlay, $2,555.

The eighth grade graduation was set for June 2 at the Ray W. Snyder School on the Fairview-Ohio View Rd. and the closing day of school for June 8. The annual school picnic will be May 18 at Idora Park, Youngstown.

Industry Police Chief E. J. Hine-man reported that several windows in the Logan School at Ohio View were broken. The board directed him to collect damages from parents of children responsible.

The Ohio View Lutheran Church was granted permission to use one classroom at Logan School for a non-sectarian Bible School June 13-24.

Walter Zischkau, was reappointed to the Ohio View Library Board to represent the Board of Education. Bills in the amount of $26,160.18 were approved for payment.

The board met in the Snyder School with James P. McClaskey, president, presiding.

Republican Club Plans Summer Fete June 24

The location will be announced when arrangements are completed. Tickets will be available from members.

The club met Wednesday in the Village Hall with Mrs. Joan Dixon, president, presiding. The next meeting is June 8.

Labor Council Backs Strike, Higher Tariff

Trades and Labor Council has gone on record in support of the employe strike against the Ohio Valley Gas Co. and has given its support to a joint labor-management protest against further reductions in the tariff on ware imported into the U. S.

The actions were taken at the council's meeting Wednesday night in the IBOP Building, when it also voted to contribute $50 to support the Little League and $5 to the current fund drive of the Columbiana County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Trades Council voted to support local unions of the United Mine Workers, which walked out last Saturday midnight in a contract dispute with the two gas companies which supply the Tri-State area.

It ordered a telegram sent to the Nationwide Committee on Import-Export Policy, which opened a meeting Thursday at Washington.

ton to protest further ware tariff reductions. The committee is supported by both labor and management in the ceramic industry.

The group heard a talk by Dr. John W. Hayes, president of the Board of Trustees of the Osteopathic Hospital, who spoke on the hospital's expansion program. Elmer Robinson, Trades Council president, urged the delegates to report to their local unions on Dr. Hayes' remarks.

Ted Sharkey and James Moss were elected delegates to the Ohio AFL-CIO convention June 8-10 in Cleveland Auditorium.

The next meeting will be an open session May 18 in the IBOP Auditorium. Miles Stanley, president of the West Virginia State Federation of Labor, will be the principal speaker. Joseph A. Winters, secretary-treasurer, said Stanley's talk will be of particular interest to women. He said "all members and friends of organized labor" may attend the open meeting.

Thanks to my loyal friends for their marvelous support in re-nominating me to State Representative in the Republican Primaries May 3.

WEST VIRGINIA VOTERS!

Don't Be Misled By Half-Truths

REPLY TO CANDIDATE HERBERT TRAUBERT'S STATEMENTS OF HALF-TRUTHS.

1. Senator Traubert voted for The Syrup Tax. This is in the Journal of the Senate on Page 169, Feb. 1, 1958.

2. What Bills or Resolutions did Traubert sponsor in Opposition to the Utility Companies asking for rate increases? NONE. And Traubert supported NONE. Del. Pauley's Resolution 17 to investigate the Utility Companies was finally killed in the Senate Finance Committee, of which Herb Traubert was a member. Traubert's friend, Senator Martin, who headed the Senate Judiciary Committee that year also had this same Resolution 17 to investigate the Public Utilities. Chairman, Senator Martin, of the Judiciary Committee refused to let this Bill, To Investigate The Utility Companies, come to the floor of the Senate for a Vote. On the floor of The House of Delegates, I EXPOSED SENATOR MARTIN AS BEING RETAINED ON THE PAYROLL OF TWO GAS COMPANIES AND CHESAPEAKE AND POTOMAC TELEPHONE COMPANY. (For verification, check headlines of The Charleston Daily Mail, Wednesday, January 15, 1958).

Now this is what Traubert failed to tell you in his article in The Weirton Daily Times on April 19, 1960, and today's Courier. (April 28th, 1960).

This case happened back in 1955, when the gas companies first began to ask for their increases. To show you how misleading Sen Traubert's statements were, he deliberately left out of the same paragraph the following lines: (Tompos Testimony)

"A. WITNESS TOMPOS, (who is still under oath to tell the truth). Well, I wouldn't say 42%. (Company requested 42 per cent raise.) In my opinion roughly I would say between 15 and 18 per cent would be a compromise on my part. That is just on the evidence that I have now. I don't have any set percentage, but in my opinion I think they are justified in asking for a certain amount of increase, for the simple fact that the gas rates have been the most reasonable service to people at the cheapest cost that I know of." (This was back in 1955, Remember, Herby?)

The following lines were omitted from this paragraph by Herb Traubert: TOMPOS TESTIMONY CONTINUED. "BUT I DON'T APPROVE OF THIS COMING IN THIS YEAR AND SAYING THAT THIS IS A FAIR RETURN, AND THEN NEXT YEAR COMING OUT WITH ANOTHER ONE. (RATE INCREASE) THAT IS THE REASON I AM HERE TODAY." (Page 15 of Tompos's Testimony against The Manufacturer's Light and Heat Co. at The Public Service Commission Hearing). Why didn't you tell the whole truth Herby? You can't fool the people ALL the time, because I won't let you.

Here are some more things that I said, Senator Traubert, concerning the same case which you did not print. (Page 9 Tompos's Testimony Continued.) "It is surprising to me that the Heads of our State Legislature, in both Houses, cannot find time to represent the people against the constant threat of new utility rate increases. It should be their duty to seek ways and means to protect the public from any abuse that may be caused by unreasonable demands by utility companies of this State. It is my firm conviction that the State of West Virginia should enact such legislation that would give the people of this State the necessary protection from utility companies that have been requesting and getting rate increases almost each year. I feel that since these various utility companies continuously keep asking for higher rates at the expense of the consuming public, without giving them added or better service, that the words "Exploiting the public consumer" is rapidly becoming a fact, supported by evidence that is conclusive. Therefore, I wish to go on record as opposing this Gas increase for the benefit of the people of West Virginia."

Yes, Herbert Traubert, you were part of the Senate Leadership with Senator Bean (who had the audacity to run for Governor) and Senator Martin, who have under this kind of leadership brought discredit to our Democrat Party and neglected to serve the best interests of the people of West Virginia.

Now here is some more truth about this same case in 1955 that Herb Traubert did not tell you in the aforementioned article:

The Gas Company asked for a raise of $2,165,000.00 yearly
The Public Service Commission granted	$1,535,736.00
Total Refunds to Gas Consumers	$ 629,264.00
Refund of 6% interest (Penalty)	$ 37,355.84
Grand Total Refund to Gas Consumers	$ 666,619.84

Since this happened five years ago, just multiply (the total amount refunded to gas consumers, $629,264) by five years. This would be a total savings for gas consumers of $3,146,320.00 for the past five years.

Therefore, Herbert Traubert, since you did not tell the whole truth, as I have done concerning this case, YOUR ATTEMPT TO MISLEAD THE PEOPLE HAS FAILED!

So it pays to have someone interested to oppose these rate cases at all times before the Public Service Commission. THIS IS SOMETHING YOU HAVE NEVER DONE, SENATOR TRAUBERT.

Officers' Installation Held For Teachers Association

New officers of the East Liverpool Teachers' Association were installed at a candlelight service during a meeting Thursday afternoon at Westgate School.

Edward L. Hoon, field representative of the Ohio Education Association, conducted the service with Mrs. Marjorie Birbeck as honorary sergeant-at-arms.

Milton Watson, Lincoln School principal and new president, was presented with the gavel by Austin Moore, retiring president.

Other officers inducted were Mrs. Gyla Nicely, first vice president; Moore, second vice president; Miss Eleanor Jane Bennett, corresponding secretary; Dolores Hughes, recording secretary; Michael Misconish, treasurer; and Blake Boyd, Mrs. Mildred Hawkins and Mrs. Mary Ruth Bebout, directors.

Hoon discussed salary trends and tendencies in education, pointing out there are 72,000 teachers in Ohio now and predicting there will be a need for 104,000 in 10 years.

The increasing demand for teachers necessitates the establishment of an adequate starting salary with equitable increments to keep pace with the rising costs and standards of living, he declared.

During a question period, Hoon recommended the local association appoint a committee to study the index system of salary scheduling. He also stressed the need for thorough understanding of local school finance.

During business, Watson appointed committee chairmen to serve in the new school year. They are: Michael Misconish, finance; Harold Bricker, public relations; Milford McGregor, social; Mrs. Lillie Belle Leonard, membership; James Martin, constitution; Mrs. Mary Alice Slaven, nominating; William Wilson, credit union; Mrs. Birbeck, legislation; Miss Ann Johnston, flowers, and Mrs. Hazel Neiser, program planning.

Carl Peltini and Clarence Means were appointed co-chairmen of the liaison committee with Kent State University, and Leslie Jackson and Harold Baldwin were chosen as co-chairmen of the school calendar committee.

Daylight savings time is not observed in the large cities in Texas.

Doctor Offers Diet, No Pills

A young woman walked into her doctor's office and said firmly, "I want you to help me reduce." What she had in mind, she confided later to dietitian, was some pills to cut down her appetite.

"Fine!" said her doctor. "You need to take off 25 pounds — and keep them off. I can help you, but under one condition — you must really want to lose that weight."

"Oh, I do!" his patient assured him earnestly, figuring he would then prescribe an appetite depressant.

The doctor reached in his desk, but instead of writing out a prescription, he wrote out a diet. When she brought up the subject of pills, he explained that anything of the sort is a temporary crutch and no real solution.

HE POINTED OUT that the dehydrators also were foolers. By that method, water is lost from the system and while this might register as scale loss, it doesn't actually change body weight.

This wise doctor convinced his patient that there is only one safe and sure way to control appetite and reduce weight, and that is to eat three well-balanced meals a day with calories cut to allow nature to draw on stored fat for part of the fuel needs.

Here is the diet by which this

One day this reducer had luncheon with a friend who knew she was dieting. She served tomato bouillon and an omelet. Then she brought in a salad bowl of cole slaw. The bowl was lined with endive, trimmed with slices of raw carrot and lemon quarters. The slaw tasted delicious, but the dieter remonstrated about the "cream" dressing.

THE FRIEND GAVE her the recipe, skim milk, sucaryl, and vinegar. "It was delicious, pretty, and not fattening," the dieter told me happily.

On the doctor's protective diet — about 1000 calories a day — this overweight lost 26 pounds in three months. She has held her weight at 138 pounds for the past three years.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Curing Doodler Who's Late For School

On any school morning thousands of families are all burned up with hampering emotions over the dawdling child in order to get him off to school on time.

When he finally makes the bus or leaves on foot for school, his mother heaves a sigh of relief. So many mothers have told me they had to lie by Garry Meyer.

down to regain composure. If the father drives to work he may leave late, and not very cheerfully. No less unhappy, perhaps, is the child himself. If the child fails to make the bus, his mother or father drives him to school in the car. I wonder how many thousands of parents did so this morning.

BECAUSE THEY did it and may do it again before many days, they have robbed the dawdler of the opportunity to learn to take responsibility. These parents just don't have the stuff it takes to solve this problem, though they know very well it could be done.

How? By refusal to drive this child to school.

If he is over 8 or 10, require him to walk to school when he isn't ready on time, if it isn't more than a mile or so and he doesn't have to walk on a highway.

Perhaps the simplest way to cure the chronic dawdler on a school morning is to let him know the night before that, if he isn't ready for school on time next morning, he will not be allowed to go to school that day. Promise him you won't say "Hurry"; even that he might collect a nickel from you every time you do. The school should, of course, be notified about what has happened.

WHILE HE'S home on this day, require him to sit unamused doing nothing during the school session, giving him a brief recess at the end of each 40 or 50 minutes.

A few parents who had the intestinal fortitude to carry through this program have written to tell me it took only one day for "permanent cure". Severe as this may seem to be, it's more humane than the usual orgy of family emotions over getting a dawdling child ready for school just one morning.

This problem of dawdling on a school morning didn't arise suddenly. It started years earlier, probably before the child was three or four, when he dawdled over eating or dressing.

If you have a child under four or five, begin now to prepare him to get himself ready on time for school bye and bye.

My bulletins, "The Slowpoke" and "Educating Your Child in Responsibility," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

3 Killed, 1 Hurt When Car Strikes Pole In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three persons were killed and two others critically injured Thursday night when their auto missed a curve and struck a utility pole at high speed, sheriff's deputies reported.

The dead were identified as William Neff, 23, Marjorie Swank, 17, and Phyllis Henry, 16, all of Columbus.

Vic Grambo, 17, driver of the car, was reported in critical condition with head injuries. Gary Baker, 21, was also in critical condition. Both are from Columbus.

Investigators said the car sheared off the pole and continued about 90 feet before coming to a halt. The crash occurred on McKinley Avenue in the west part of the city, in land fill - dumping ground area.

Downing of the pole cut power to the immediate vicinity. "Hot" wires were scattered around the crash scene for a time, deputies said.

Jessol's tractor apparently backed off a 12-foot embankment and overturned on him in a creek bed.

School Levies Aided By New Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—School bond issues and levies fared better in Tuesday's elections because of new laws governing the approval of such matters, the Ohio Education Assn. reported.

An unofficial survey showed 67.3 per cent of the 52 bond issues approved and 72.5 per cent of the 102 levies approved. The new laws require only a simple majority vote instead of a certain percentage for the approval of bond issues and operating levies at primary elections in even-numbered years.

The survey showed that of the 154 total issues, the 45 defeated would have been joined by another 37 had not the simple majority rule been in effect for the first time.

Actually voters rejected more money than they approved. The 35 bond issues given the green light totaled 22 million dollars, compared with the 25.1 million dollar total of the 17 issues defeated. The seven bond issues which were okayed by the new law (but which would have failed under the old 55 per cent of the vote rule) totaled 3.6 million.

On the levy issues the lower voting requirement allowed another 30 levies to pass for a total of 74. The former requirement was 60 per cent of the vote for passage. Metropolitan areas gave bond issues and levies rough treatment. Only 13 of 34 levies and five of 12 bond issues were approved in these areas.

Voters approved only five of the 14 bond issues which totaled a million dollars or more. The two largest to be approved were at Berea and Wooster, each issue totaling 2.9 million dollars. The largest bond issues defeated were at Kettering (.9 million) and Parma (.3 million), the latter losing by 284 votes.

A $600,000 bond issue at Liberty Union (Butler Co.) lost by 29 votes. At Conotton Valley (Harrison Co.) a $290,000 bond issue was approved by 17 votes. A $580,000 bond issue at Stow (Summit Co.) passed by 27 votes.

Some school systems faced serious financial problems as the result of levy defeats. The 8.6 mills for renewal included a Cleveland operating levy which lost represented all of the system's voted operating funds. Operating levies previously defeated at Massillon were turned down again.

At Strongsville, where voters had twice last year rejected levies, a 14.4 mill levy received a 59.6 per cent majority vote. Previously defeated levies at Sidney, which had prevented the opening of a new high school, were approved by a wide margin. A 4.3 mill "survival levy" at Wickliffe, where levies were turned down twice last fall, was approved by a 61.8 per cent majority.

Canton Given OK On Water

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Commission has granted the city of Canton the right to take 20 million gallons of water a day from the Sugar Creek well field in Tuscarawas County.

Herbert B. Eagon, director of the Department of Natural Resources, wrote the decision.

"The commission find the plan of the City of Canton to develop a well field in the Sugar Creek Valley, to pump not to exceed 20 million gallons of water daily, is well within the potential capacity of the field and it approves of the plan," Eagon wrote.

Don Zimmerman, an attorney for New Philadelphia, told newsmen during a recess in the hearing Thursday that the "issue at hand is not the present but the future."

Zimmerman said: "We have some choice industrial land in the area that did not have any value because of lack of transportation, but now that a new highway is proposed in that area the land is valuable, and the chief asset is water."

C. V. Youngquist, chief of the Water Division of the Department of Natural Resources, said the 20 million gallons of water taken from the field by Canton would not affect the water levels of the towns of Strasburg or Dover.

Other conditions of the decision are that Canton make annual reports of operation, that the Ohio Division of Water carry out plans to instrument the well field and maintain continuous observation of results, and that the commission be advised in advance of any change in plans.

Compensation Office To Close On Saturdays

The East Liverpool office of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation will be closed all day on Saturdays starting May 14, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said today.

The Saturday closing policy is being adopted as an economy measure, Dinsmore said, explaining there are so few visits on Saturday mornings that the costs do not warrant keeping the office open.

Employees, who were assigned to work on Saturday were not available for a corresponding period earlier in the week and the practice occasionally involved an inconvenience to the public, the manager said.

The new office schedule from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mondays through Fridays will permit a full staff to be on duty each day and provide for better service, Dinsmore said.

Here's Rundown On Some Of Top Bills In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a rundown on the status of some of the top bills pending in Congress:

Depressed Areas — The House passed a 251-million-dollar aid bill Wednesday. The President had asked for 52 million. The Senate already has passed a 389-million-dollar bill. The Senate may accept the House version.

Medical Care for the Aged — The administration presented its plan to Congress this week, providing up to $1,200,000,000 annually in matching state and federal funds. The plan was attacked by Democrats as inadequate. Several bills have been introduced to bring such medical care under Social Security, an idea denounced by the President.

Defense Appropriations — The House voted Thursday 377-3 to appropriate $39,337,697,000 for the Defense Department. This was $121,900,000 more than the President asked, and differed from his recommendations in other ways. Bill now goes to Senate.

The population of Canada is 17 million.

Fighting 6th Cavalry Begins Its 100th Year

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — The 6th Armored Cavalry's agenda called for a light machine gun drill and tent pitching competition.

Old fashioned? Certainly. The fighting 6th, first called to arms by President Lincoln, began its 100th year today. The color guard set the tempo by donning Civil War style uniforms for the anniversary ceremonies.

Class Waits Confirmation

Bishop George Elmer Bernarding will administer the sacrament for the confirmation of a class of over 200 at 4 p. m. today at the Presentation Catholic Church at Midland.

He was consecrated a bishop only two weeks ago by Bishop John J. Wright at St. Paul's Cathedral in Pittsburgh.

Bishop Bernarding was recently appointed Titular Bishop Belabene, Vicar Apostolic, of Mount Hagen, New Guinea.

He is a member of the Society of the Divine Word that does missionary work throughout the world.

Due to the limited space in the church there will be room only for the confirmation class and the sponsors.

Dispensation from abstaining from meat has been granted by Fr. Francis Paul, pastor, for Confirmation Day.

The dispensation applies to the class, the families of those being confirmed and their guests.

Fr. Anthony DaLucca of the Resurrection Church at Brookline, Pa., will preach the sermon for the occasion and Fr. Joseph Knorr, director of vocations for the Pittsburgh Diocese, will be the master of ceremonies.

Confessions were heard Wednesday and Thursday evening at 7:15 for the confirmation sponsors and this morning following Mass. They will be heard again Saturday morning.

City Honor Roll Board Brightened For Holiday

The City Hall custodial staff has started work on the annual refurbishing of the honor roll board on the lawn in front of the municipal building in preparation for May 30.

The custodians are scrubbing the wooden board and cleaning the windows that cover the lists of names of all East Liverpool area men and women who served in the armed forces during World War II. The board is due to get its annual coat of white paint a few days before the holiday.

The Memorial Day parade generally pauses in front of the board for one of the ceremonies in tribute to the city's war dead. The board was erected in the early days of World War II by the Joint Farewell Association, a group of service and civic organizations which gave a send-off to each draft contingent leaving the city.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

The Porpoises Were A Refreshing Change

The Frances Langford show on Sunday opened with a shot of Whistler's "Mother" and the explanation that it was painted by her son, James MacNeil Whistler (leaving to chance), and closed with a shot of the Virgin Mary who was introduced as "that greatest of all mothers." In between we met Gary Cooper's mother, Tony Curtis' mother, Dean Martin's mother and several billion other mothers. It was all so sickening that several mothers I know have decided to sell their children and resign from the lodge.

John Crosby

In between these salutes to maternity which may have done more damage to the institution of motherhood than anything since Dennis James had a program called "Okay, Mother," the Frances Langford show went to great trouble and expense setting the institution of television back to the early days of Milton Berle, which is to say circa 12 B.C. Maybe even earlier.

THERE WAS a number in which the whole cast was on an airliner, singing like crazy, which reminded me strongly of those Warner Brothers musicals of the '30s. Hollywood always had a great weakness for conveyances of various sorts. Gee, I can remember way back when no actor ever set foot on the rear platform of a train without bursting into "Beyond the Blue Horizon."

The guest list for the show was fairly startling. It included Don Ameche, the Three Stooges, Hermine Gindoff (who is suffering seriously from overexposure) and Johnny Mathis.

Ken Murray appeared for about three seconds in that airplane scene and never again. (Maybe he saw what lay ahead and jumped out.)

Johnny Mathis sang "Putting on the Ritz" while bouncing a basketball. I can't think why. Mary Costa sang while the Three Stooges in girls' clothes, clowning behind her.

It looked like something out of old-time burlesque. There was a ballet welcoming this ill-assorted mob to Hollywood which seemed like a bad dream.

THE PRODUCER of this appalling mess was Charles Wick, a tanned, talkative man who is Miss Langford's partner in many projects.

"I'm a nonpracticing lawyer, with a degree in music, and I love show business," he explained before the show. Nonpracticing lawyers ought to nonpractice law. But back to Mr. Wick.

"What I've set out to do is to please as wide an audience as I can." I think maybe Mr. Wick ought to go into politics, where pleasing everybody works better than in show business. There you are more likely to please nobody, including even mothers.

"My fundamental belief is to believe in yourself so what I've sought to do is to do what I'd like to see on television, what would be entertaining to my family and me.

"I've got four children—the oldest is seven—so the show had to have quite a range. When you stop to think that more people will probably see this show than saw every Shakespearean play in history."

Fortunately, that isn't true. Shakespeare has been on television, too, Mr. Wick.

DIRECTLY following the Frances Langford show came the Aquaradeo. What's an Aquaradeo? You may well ask. It stars fish.

Roy Rogers and his wife, Dale Evans, who has one of the most relentless smiles in show business, acted as hosts to the porpoises who do this sort of thing every day at Marineland in California.

"Our first event is shark bustin'," cried Mr. Rogers. "Let's start bustin' sharks, shall we?"

Whereupon some divers dove to the bottom of a tank and came up with small leopard sharks in their hands.

The sharks were small, resembling oversized perch. But I thought the porpoises were very clever and talented and wet. They were a refreshing change after the Frances Langford show.

Ex-Model Kept Baby In Wire Sleeping Cage

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—A one-time New York model who kept a baby in a wire sleeping cage outdoors today defended her notions of health and clean living.

Mrs. Randolph Glover, 48, who wears her hair in a blonde ponytail down her back, said she believed in "fresh air and vegetables and nitrogen from legumes. It happens to be that my ideas are beyond the average person's. Maybe back in the middle ages they'd have called me a witch."

The six-month-old baby was not hers. He was Carl F. Hairfield Jr., child of a couple who came last fall to live as tenants on Mrs. Glover's 120-acre rural spread near here.

Police found the child at 1 a. m. Wednesday while looking for Mrs. Glover's husband on an assault charge. The baby was asleep in a roomy cage-like structure made of heavy woven wire fencing, suspended about five feet above the ground. Mrs. Glover herself habitually slept in a bed in the meadow in front of her house.

Made a ward of Montgomery County Juvenile Court, the baby was examined at a hospital. Doctors said "the child was perfectly normal and very clean. It looks as if he had been well kept."

The baby will be placed in a foster home pending a hearing on his future.

Lung Threat In Smoking Cited In Health League's Release

LISBON — A warning of "all people" of the risk of the development of lung cancer from smoking cigarettes was issued Wednesday by the National Tuberculosis Association of New York, according to Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive secretary of the Columbia County Public Health League.

The action was recommended by a special committee headed by Dr. Robert H. Browning, director of the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital at Columbus.

The NTA, which includes all respiratory diseases in its program, pointed out that smoking appears to be a factor also in such crippling lung diseases as chronic bronchitis and emphysema — a condition in which the lung loses elasticity and breathing becomes increasingly difficult.

Approved by the governing body of the NTA's Medical Section, the American Trudeau Society, the statement based its warning on three points:

There is an alarming increase in deaths from lung cancer. Cigarette smoking is a major cause of lung cancer.

The risk of lung cancer increases with the number of cigarettes smoked.

The statement pointed out also that the risk of lung cancer is reduced when smoking is given up. Although research is in progress, "no present method of treatment of lung cancer is available."

Rural Women's Groups Plan Demonstrations

LISBON — A demonstration on making marzipan confection of crushed almonds and sugar will be given at the meeting of the Franklin Township Home Demonstration Group Tuesday from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Gerry McPherson on the Dungan-Millport Rd. Mrs. Howard Spiers will be leader.

A program on making tin can stools and wax fruit and a garden exchange will feature the Hanover Township Home Demonstration Group's meeting Thursday from 10 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. at the Hanover Presbyterian Church. Father Of 10, Panicked By Fire, Leaps To Death

NEW YORK (AP)—A father of 10 children, panicked by a fire in his fifth-floor apartment, leaped to his death Thursday with a four-year-old daughter in his arms.

The child was critically injured. Firemen were spreading a net under the apartment of the victim, Willie Fowler, 42-year-old Negro, when he jumped.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Tobacco Stains

• Cherry Seeds
• Colds

Q. How can tobacco stains be removed from teeth?
A. Your dentist can safely remove such stains. Although there are preparations on the market for whitening teeth there is some danger of damaging the tooth enamel. Do-it-yourself tooth whitening is not recommended.

Q. Are cherry seeds poisonous?
I have heard that they are but children seem to swallow them without trouble.
A. Cherry seeds contain a substance which, with water, produces a poison but the seeds must be crushed to produce this reaction. It is said that 12 oz. of cherry seeds contain enough prussic acid to give symptoms of poisoning but it is not likely that so large an amount could be eaten.

Q. I recently went to a doctor for a flu shot. By that evening I had the worst cold I have ever had. Could the shot have caused the cold?
A. It is very unlikely that the vaccine injection brought on cold symptoms. A better explanation

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the 17-year-old boy who signed himself "Horrible Sight" could have been written by me several years ago. A person who has not suffered the hell in a nutshell of severe acne can't imagine the agony.

Your advice to see a skin specialist was excellent but I'm sure you've never had acne. Ann Landers, or you would have carried it one step further. More important than anything else, is to develop the right attitude so that acne doesn't murder a teen-ager's confidence and make him a recluse.

To all teen-agers with acne I would like to say this: Follow your doctor's order, but assume the acne is going to be with you for a long time. Then make up your mind to fight back.

Don't hide. Be a leader if it kills you. Work like a Trojan to get good grades, participate in sports, dramatics, debate and music. Be as fine a person as you know how.

The old-fashioned virtues, loyalty, honesty, a no-gossip program and a lively sense of humor are still the best friend-getters known to man.

I'm certain now that my acne served a very useful purpose. I knew I couldn't depend on my looks to get me places, so I had to develop personality, build character and demonstrate leadership qualities if I wanted to amount to anything.

So, please, Ann, tell the teens who are suffering from this miserable skin curse to put it to work for them. When they stop thinking of themselves as "horrible sights" — so will everyone else.

—EX-NAVAL OFFICER.

Dear Ex: Many thanks for those words of wisdom. I hope the thousands of kids who are acne victims will clip this column and look at it from time to time when they need encouragement.

Party Or Candidate?

Dear Ann: My husband and I frequently disagree about politics. He argues that I would vote for a chimpanzee if he ran on the Democratic ticket. He brags that he votes for the man and not the party.

I've heard others make this same statement with an air of superiority. I know there's something wrong with their reasoning but I can't put it into words. Can you?—TONGUE TIED.

Dear Tied: What your husband is trying to say is that we must support the candidates who represent the party of our choice if we are to preserve the party. And this is fine — up to a point.

However, the voter who refuses to follow his party's candidate when that candidate does not come up to his standards is a healthy influence on both parties.

Such an independent spirit effectively can register disapproval of his own party's candidate without abandoning his — or his party's — principles.

Doggone Dog

Dear Ann: Our neighbor has a German shepherd which is the meanest animal I've ever seen. He has bitten two children in the neighborhood and nipped my small son twice. The mailman is afraid to deliver the mail to the house.

Whenever we complain to the owners they say, "Prince is very gentle. The children must have teased him."

At night the dog howls and barks. During the day he runs all over my tulips and iris. What can I do about this beast?—S.S.S.

Dear S.S.S.: In most cities it's against the law for dogs to be running loose. Call the police department and find out if the dog should be on a leash. If they are breaking the law, tell them and give them a chance to abide by the regulations. If they ignore the law after that, report them.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The children will be given polio immunization shots and the regular inoculations. The first will be held May 12, the second May 26 and the third June 9.

The clinics will be open from 9 to 11 a. m. Dr. Gustave Peller, city health commissioner, is in charge.

Union Buys Share In Hotel Plan For Retired Members

The Executive Board of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters has made an initial investment of $5,000 in a trade union co-operative that plans to build and operate hotels in resort areas where retired members may obtain room and board at minimum rates estimated at $100 to $125 monthly.

Called Four Freedom Hotels, Inc., the co-operative will build or buy hotels in favorite resort areas, providing meals, rooms and recreational facilities for retired trade unionists, the IBOP said. Designed for double occupancy, each room will have a private bath, radio, telephone, television and air conditioning, the IBOP added.

The retired union members will be entitled to service equivalent to "everything you would get if you went on a vacation to the finest resort hotels," the IBOP announced. The union's initial investment entitles it to a Class A membership, issued only to non-profit organizations and limited to 100 units, it added.

E. L. Wheatley, president of the IBOP, has been made a member of the Board of Directors of Four Freedom Hotels, Inc.

"This program aims at providing old-timers not only with fine accommodations and good food at rates they can afford, but also with the freedom and dignity which are so important to every individual," he commented.

A Handsome Offer . . .

Eddie McCluskey, Farrell High's successful basketball coach, was in town Wednesday night to speak at the Columbiana County Coaches meeting amid speculation that he may move to Aliquippa.

The speculation will end soon, however, since McCluskey was to inform Aliquippa officials sometime today whether or not he will accept a most handsome offer.

We have learned that Aliquippa has offered McCluskey some $3,000 more than he is making at Farrell.

The deal sounds almost too good to pass up, but last month when Eddie spoke at Midland, he said, "The people of Farrell have been very good to me." (The townspeople presented him with a new car a year ago after he brought Farrell its fourth Pennsylvania basketball championship.)

So Ed probably will think twice—or more—before making a change.

Another Gold Watch . . .

A BALLOT came slipping through the mails earlier this week for a vote on the "Gold Watch Award" presented annually to the person who has done the most for athletics or one who has been outstanding in athletics in East Liverpool during the past year.

This marks the 12th year that the Fraternal Order of Police has presented the award. The idea was conceived back in 1948 and since that time some outstanding athletes have been honored.

The award will be given this year on May 18 during the ball at the Elks Ballroom.

Trbovich In Three I League . . .

RUDY TRBOVICH, who stayed with Savannah of the Sally League for a few days, has been sent to Burlington, Iowa, in the Class B, Three I League.

The righthander, a product of East Liverpool High School, is still in the Pirate organization. The Class B League is a step up for 23-year-old Trbovich, who showed a winning record at Grand Forks in the Class D Northern League last season.

Burlington is 3-2 so far in league play and Rudy hasn't had a chance to pitch yet, but was scheduled to hurl sometime this week as the team started a long road trip.

The Three I League by the way is one of the oldest minor leagues in the United States. It is a charter member of the first minor league association.

If you are wondering what the Three I's stand for, it's Indiana, Illinois and Iowa.

JUNIOR Dave Hornick has been Bowling Green State University's most effective hurler this spring on a team with a 4-3 mark.

The 6-foot, 200-pound righthander from East Liverpool has appeared in three games, allowing just nine hits, two walks, two BOB HEDMOND, Potter track coach, has an eye out for the future. He has been running ninth-graders from Westgate in track meets this season.

One bright prospect for the future is Eddie Pruden, known for his baseball ability, but a speedster on the cinders.

In a meet against the Struthers freshmen Wednesday, Pruden turned in a 24.7 clocking in the 220-yard dash and anchored the half-mile relay team to a victory. Other members of the half-mile relay squad are Durbin, Henrick and Massey.

FOUR TEAMS have been lined up for the City Softball League. They are Midland CIO, Lee's Market, East End Merchants and Patterson's Dry Cleaning.

Jim Tice said the league is seeking three or four more teams. The entry fee is $75. Anyone interested may call Jim at FU 6-6528 before Sunday.

Two-Horse Race Seen In Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The secret of how Bally Ache overcame runner-upitis and became one of the two strong favorites for Saturday's $125,000 Kentucky Derby was revealed today as 14 three-year-old horses wound up their training with light workouts at Churchill Downs.

The smooth striding bay with bull dog-like tendencies for holding on in face of defeat has been getting special exercises and training routines to make him taller, heavier and longer.

Bally Ache And Tompion Rate Edge

Although winner of more than $303,000 in 1959 and out of the money only once in 16 starts, the son of Ballydam lost five $100,000 plus races by a total distance of less than 1 1/2 lengths. To say the least that was frustrating to Leonard Fruchtman of Toledo, Ohio, who paid a mere $2,500 for the colt, and trainer Jimmy Pitt.

"If his neck and nose had been a little longer he would have taken at least three of those rich races," said Pitt as he watched Bally Ache graze outside Barn 42.

"But this year it has been a different story. He's grown from around 15.3 hands to about 16.1. He's much heavier in the right places. And look at that neck. He can really stretch it."

This year Bally Ache has been out seven times for a record of five victories, two seconds and earnings of $211,800. Not once has he bowed in a rich stake as he chalked up victories in the Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the Florida derby at Gulfstream Park.

The two Florida triumphs plus a romp over Venetian Way in last Saturday's stepping stone at Churchill has established Bally Ache as the second choice at 5-2 to C. V. Whitney's Tompion, 7-5 favorite. And Bally Ache could well go postward as the co-favorite of the crowd of 100,000.

Tompion, although an easy winner of the Santa Anita derby and even more impressive in the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland eight days ago, can't match the won-lost and money-earned record of his rival.

Bally Ache and Tompion clashed three times at the close of the 1959 season. In the three races — the Cowdin, Champagne and Garden State stakes — they both bowed to Warfare. But neither horse against-horse rivalry Bally Ache holds a 2-1 edge over Whitney's son of Tom Fool.

Hawkins Wins 3rd; Bucs' Rally Nips Cubs

Rookie Slab Star Hit By Batted Ball

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' first 1960 encounter with the free-swinging Baltimore Orioles was a wild affair.

The skirmish nearly resulted in disaster as Wynn Hawkins, bright young rookie pitcher, was felled by a line drive in the seventh inning. The smash off the bat of Jim Gentile brushed Hawkins' forehead, struck him on top of the shoulder and bounced high into right field.

Although obviously in great pain, Hawkins got up and ran toward third base to back up a throw being made to that spot.

He wanted to stay in the game, but was removed by Manager Joe Gordon.

X-rays of Hawkins' shoulder were negative. It was only bruised.

The 24-year-old righthander was in trouble several times but blanked the Orioles on three hits until the sixth inning, when Gentile drove a home run over the center field fence, his fourth of the season.

Reds Defeat Giants, Push Streak To 4

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's Reds finally have themselves a winning streak, now that reliever Bill Henry is pitching as effectively for them as he did against 'em.

The Reds, who hadn't been able to win two in a row through their first 15 games, beat the San Francisco Giants 4-3 Thursday for their fourth straight victory.

VENETIAN WAY of Sunny Blue Farm looks plenty sharp and alert as he looks over the track at Churchill Downs. Venetian Way is held by his trainer V. Sovinski. This Chicago horse is owned by Isaac Blumberg who is reported to have paid $10,000 for him. (UPI Telephoto)

Hawkins Is Second Tribe Pitcher Hit In 3 Years

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was three years ago Saturday that a line drive ended Herb Score's effectiveness as a pitcher, and almost cost him his sight. Now the Cleveland Indians, denied at least one American League pennant with the loss of Score, await a medical report on a second youngster hit by a line drive while on the mound.

Wynn Hawkins, 24, a right-handed rookie, won his third in a row, 11-6 at Baltimore Thursday night, but had to give way in the seventh inning when a ball hit by Jim Gentile struck his pitching shoulder.

The ball hit Hawkins with such force it bounced high into the air to the outfield.

Hawkins didn't appear seriously injured, but was taken to a hospital for precautionary observation.

Only one other game was scheduled in the AL and the Chicago White Sox won it, 5-3 at Washington, for a virtual tie with the idle New York Yankees.

In the National League, Pittsburgh takes a two-game lead in San Francisco for the opener of a three-game series with the second place Giants tonight after beating the Chicago Cubs 9-7. Cincinnati won its fourth in a row by beating the Giants 4-3. Los Angeles defeated Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings and Philadelphia stopped St. Louis 3-1.

Hawkins had the Orioles blanked until the sixth, when Gentile's fourth home run started a two-run inning. The Orioles then put together a four-run seventh when Bob Grim relieved Hawkins, who gave up eight hits, walked four and struck out five.

Milt Pappas (1-2), first of six

Baltimore pitchers, was the loser.

Roy Sievers, the slugger the White Sox got from Washington in a three-player swap, made his first home run of the year good for a pair of first-inning runs against his old mates. Earl Battey, one of the players the Sox bundled together with $150,000 for Sievers, had three of the Senators' eight hits and drove in four runs, one with his fourth homer.

The White Sox nailed it with two runs in the seventh off Russ Kemmerer (0-2), scoring on a sacrifice fly by Nellie Fox and a single by Minnie Minoso. Bob Shaw (2-1) won it, with Turk Lown's relief, for his seventh in a row against Washington.

The Dodgers ended their slump at four on rookie Bob Aspromonte's fourth consecutive hit — a two-out, two-strike single with the bases loaded. Larry Sherry (2-3), never a loser against the Braves, beat them for the third time with four frames of two-hit, shutout relief after starter Johnny Podres had given up homers by Mel Roach and Hank Aaron. Don McMahon (1-2) lost it in relief of Lew Burdette.

Rookies Pancho Herrera and Ken Walters hit fourth-inning homers for all three runs as the Phillies beat Vinegar Bend Mizell (1-2) for the first time in six decisions. Jim Owens (2-2), put away his second nine-inning job with a five-hitter. The Cards scored in the fifth on a walk, Leon Wagner's single and a doubleplay.

MIKE DURBIN has been a standout for the Beaver Local track team this spring. Only a junior, Durbin has scored 101 points in eight meets, six dual, one triangular and one quadrangular. Usually taking first in three or four events, Durbin competes in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, broad jump and high jump. He will be one of the outstanding track stars to watch in the Columbiana County meet next Friday at East Palestine.

North Carolina State lost nine football games last season but five of the losses were by five points or less.

State University's 29th annual clinic, were told Thursday night by high school commissioner W. J. McConnell:

"My personal belief is that it's all right to issue football shoes and footballs to your players when school is out in June, or on July 1, or Aug. 1—if you are rich enough to do it.

"I see nothing wrong with a boy familiarizing himself with the feel of a football, or getting accustomed to his football shoes, during the summer months.

"But you coaches will have to stay away from the boys while they are using the equipment, for no coaching is allowed in the off-season."

But the mere issuance of equipment marks a big change in rule interpretation.

Glenn (Tiger) Ellison, Middletown's veteran mentor, said his school desired to run an intra-squad game Sept. 2 and charge $1 admission to build up the school band fund—but McConnell said it was against the rules since the first game or preview can't be held before Sept. 9.

McConnell also said the state Board of Control had taken a dim view of some schools lining up an 11-game schedule this year, due to the earlier starting date, and urged the mentors to limit their slates to 10 games.

George Hardie of Youngstown Woodrow Wilson, who took over as president of the 1,000-coach association, assured McConnell the group had urged its members to abandon the 11-game slates.

The coaches voted to adopt a basketball rule for football. It would have a gridded guilty of an infraction raise his hand so coaches and fans might recognize the culprit.

Jimmy Robinson of Canton McKinley, manager of the 15th annual North-South all-star game slated Aug. 13 at Canton, said he had lined up some of the country's finest talent as speakers for the five-day clinic preceding the contest.

On the program will be Jim Owens of Washington's Rose Bowl champions, Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse's national champions, Milt Bruhn of Wisconsin's Big Ten champions; Gene Slaughter of Ohio State, the 1957 high school coach of the year at Warren; Leo Strang of Massillon's state champions, the 1959 coach of the year; Phil Shippe of Wooster, trainer Eddie Wojcicki of Rice Institute, and Doyt Perry of Bowling Green.

Strang, who will coach the Northern all-stars, named Bob Brugge of Parma, Anton Prasher of Barberton, and K. P. Herman of Fostoria St. Wendelin as assistants. Pete Ankeny of Kettering Fairmont, head coach of the Rebels, selected Tony Ware of Greenville, C. W. Van Schoyck of Fairborn, and John Bickel of Newark Catholic as his aides.

Baseball Men
Denounce New
Kefauver Bill

NEW YORK (AP)—Most baseball officials took up the cudgels against Senator Estes Kefauver's anti-hoarding bill, but the bitterest reaction today came from the usually reticent George Weiss of the New York Yankees.

"This is one more evidence of the Continental League's desire to acquire major league status in the same cheap manner which has characterized all the other moves," the Yankee general manager said.

The bill, introduced by the monopoly-busting Tennessee senator Thursday, would curb farm operations of major league teams by limiting the players under one club control to 100. Sixty of the 100 would be subject each year to an unlimited draft and a player drafted by more than one team could take his choice.

From Commissioner Ford Frick down through official ranks, organized baseball branded the bill as a potential wrecking of the game. Bill Shea of New York, founder of the Continental League, hailed it as a great move toward "equality."

"It will make more players available for everybody," he added.

Pepo's Jet Flashes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Pepo's Jet flashed to a 1:10 1-5 finish time for victory in the feature eight race Thursday at Beulah Park.
Harry Holcomb piloted the horse in the six-furlong race. The winner returned $4.20.
Pepo's Jet is owned by H. J. Ruff of Lancaster and Chester Fleure of Junction City.

Major League Stars

Pitching — Jim Owens, Phillies, stopped slugging Cardinals with five hits for 3-1 victory.
Hitting — Bob Aspromonte, Dodgers, rookie, belted his first major league homer and beat the Braves 4-3 in the 10th with his fourth consecutive hit, a two-out, two-strike single with the bases loaded.

4 Area Men Enlist For Navy Service

Four East Liverpool area men who enlisted in the Navy during April at the recruiting station in City Hall have started nine weeks of training at the Great Lakes Navy Training Center, near Chicago.

They are: Jerry E. Allford, son of Mrs. Minnie A. McKinzie, 211 E. 3rd St.; Alvin J. Conci, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conci, 518 Campground Rd.; Carl R. Lindner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Lindner of Salem, and Patrick J. Schukert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Schukert of Salem R. D. 3.

Bidding Slated May 24 On Gasoline, Motor Oil

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver will open bids at noon Tuesday, May 24, for purchase of a year's supply of gasoline and motor oil for vehicles of four municipal departments.

The director said the city will issue the official call for bids Monday on: 15,000 gallons of gasoline, 500 gallons of motor oil, 1,000 gallons of diesel fuel and 200 gallons of hydraulic oil. The officials also will take bids on 40,000 gallons of road oil for use in the street department's street oiling program at property-owners' expense.

The city generally lets contracts each spring for the supplies, specifying delivery as required. Council enacted legislation Monday night authorizing the call for bids. The gas and oil are for use in the street, incinerator, police and fire departments.

Rugged Tests To Aid Roads Of Tomorrow

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — The design for tomorrow's highways is being worked out to the drone of a convoy of trucks driving up and down an eight-mile test road near here.

The 70 trucks, ranging from pickups to semi-trailers and carrying various loads, have traveled nearly four million miles since November of 1958. The 22-million-dollar research project will continue another year.

Findings of the project are expected to have a big influence on future highway design and to provide information for studies in highway user taxation.

Also, they will be used by the Bureau of Public Roads in determining the maximum weights and dimensions of vehicles to be operated on the federal highway system, including the interstate system.

THE PROJECT, sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials, is administered and directed by the Highway Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, a private non-profit organization.

Costs are being shared by all the states, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Bureau of Public Roads, the Automobile Manufacturers Association, the American Petroleum Institute and the American Institute of Steel Construction.

The test road is built in 36 separate sections, with asphalt thicknesses ranging from a surface treatment up to 31 inches, and rigid pavement ranging from 2½ inches up to 12½ inches on nine inches of sub-base.

Half the road is paved with portland cement concrete and half with asphalt concrete.

There are 16 50-foot test bridges — eight with steel beams, four with reinforced concrete beams and four with prestressed concrete beams.

ONE SECTION of pavement stands relatively idle. It is being used to determine the effects of weather alone on highway pavements.

A million dollars worth of instruments and equipment collect and analyze data on the behavior of the test pavements.

Some 7,000 small electrical devices are installed on, in, and under the pavements to measure strains, deflections, pressures, temperatures and frost depths.

Walter B. McKendrick Jr., former chief engineer of the Delaware Highway Department, is in charge of the project. Trucks are driven on their monotonous, 18-hour day, 6-day-a-week grind by men of the Army Transportation Corps from Ft. Eustis, Va.

Final findings of the project will be published in 1961.

Alaska Will Offer Varied Vacation

By The Associated Press
The new state of Alaska, America's last frontier, promises to be a growing tourist mecca.

And by making the right plans, an automobile trip to the Land of the Midnight Sun with its scenery, fishing and hunting can be an unmatched vacation.

The American Automobile Association offers these suggestions and advice for Alaska-bound motorists:

Plan on a minimum of eight days traveling from Great Falls, Mont., or Seattle, Wash., to Fairbanks under normal road conditions.

Estimated expense of two adults making a one-way, eight-day trip is $235 — allowing $75 for lodgings, $80 for meals and $80 for gas and oil.

The automobile, of course, should be in top condition. The gasoline tank should be covered with a piece of rubber matting to protect against flying gravel. Plastic shields should be used to protect the headlights.

Masking tape around the trunk will help keep dust from entering while driving on unpaved sections of the Alaska Highway.

There are no frills in accommodations on the route. Still the accommodations generally are clean and food, while plain, is wholesome.

Campers will find numerous public campgrounds along the way.

The recommended travel season is from June through September, when temperatures range from 35 to 75 degrees, with warm days and cool evenings. The highway, however, is kept open the year round.

Gasoline stations are located at frequent intervals, but it's a good idea to carry an extra five-gallon can of gas — just in case.

Things Are Looking Up For Pro Astronomer

MILLBURN, N. J. (AP) — Professional astronomy has been the fulltime job of James S. Pickering, assistant astronomer at the Hayden Planetarium in New York, for only eight years.

Pickering worked 24 years for a big department store, rising to credit manager. But astronomy was something he steeped himself in since boyhood. He quit his store job eight years ago to make the stars his career.

He won a national award for his television series, "Astronomy and You," and has written two books about the heavens.

NOT SO MODERN ASSEMBLY LINE. This is an interior shot of the Auburn factory at Auburn, Ind., in 1932. Cars were manufactured on an assembly line, but were not turned out as fast as today. Running boards and wire wheels were the vogue 28 years ago.

Union, Industry At Odds Over Automation's Effect

DETROIT (AP) — Automation in one form or another has been kicking around the auto industry almost from the day Henry Ford invented his Model T.

But the word itself is comparatively recent. D. S. Harder, Ford Motor Co. executive vice president, was one of the first to use the word "automation" when in 1946 he described a system for automatic handling of parts in the production process.

Ralph E. Cross, executive vice president of one of the largest makers of automation machinery, defines it as the process of combining operations to increase productivity.

AUTOMATION also is often used to mean simply the switching of man-done jobs to automatic machines.

Each new auto plant that is built has more automatic machinery than the one it replaces.

The most recent example is the new Chrysler Corp. assembly plant at St. Louis which began operations with the 1960 model run. It replaced two old plants at Evansville, Ind., and has a higher, though unstated capacity with slightly fewer employees.

One stumbling block to increased use of complex automatic machinery in the auto industry was eliminated recently by agreement on a new "building-block" concept for production machine tools.

The auto companies and the major production machine tool suppliers agreed on a limited series of standard specifications which will increase the useful life of high-cost machine tools and help reduce obsolescence costs.

The "building block" concept permits replacement of one or more sections of a production line with other standard sections to adapt the basic line to production of newly designed parts.

THIS WILL help immensely with model changeover periods since the new flexibility of the equipment will make the changes less costly.

The auto companies insist that automation does not eliminate jobs. The United Auto Workers Union says it does. One union spokesman contends it reduced by 19.6 per cent the number of hours required to build a car between 1956 and 1958.

A Ford spokesman says, "Like every other important technological development from the steam engine to atomic power, automation has created far more new jobs than the number it has displaced."

Ford says that machines now work for men, rather than men for machines.

There is no quarrel, however, but that the American auto industry can reach its high volume only through the use of machines. And there is a steady shift to automatic processes for much of the precision work that speeds assembly line operation.

However, as long as men and not machines buy the cars, there will be men in large numbers working in the auto plants.

owner when his car is damaged in an accident. Under the deductible clause, the insurance company pays all repair costs above the specified figure.

Many owners also take out insurance to cover loss of personal effects from a car, the cost of towing and road services, medical payments for injuries to the car owner, his family and passengers, and cost of injury caused by uninsured motorists.

As We Forgive—

ELLERSON, Va. (AP) — James Bryant, of Ellerson, Va., bequeathed to six persons any and all money they owed him at the time of his death — the total some $40,000. Friends believe the 71-year-old farmer had the Lord's Prayer in mind when he made his will seven days before his death April 4.

Fort Worth, Tex., attracts about 450 conventions a year.

Air Conditioners Gain Popularity

DETROIT (AP) — Air-conditioned automobiles are growing steadily in popularity.

Their rise has not been as spectacular as some options, probably because of initial price, but is building up every year.

Some 330,000 cars, or about 6 per cent of the 1959 model run, were equipped with factory-installed air conditioning. This was up from 4.6 per cent of the 1958 models and compares with 3.7 per cent of the 1957 models.

Ward's Automotive Reports figures that the total number of cars operating on the nation's highways with air conditioning now exceeds 1,600,000. Of these, two-thirds of the units were factory installed and the others came from independent suppliers.

So far a general rule of thumb is the more expensive the car the more likely it is to be air conditioned. The medium and high price lines account for only 30 per cent of the industry's new car sales. But they make up 70 per cent of the air conditioner purchases.

The sales pattern is spotty geographically, too, with the South and Southwest the biggest buyers. Ford says that 62 per cent of its air conditioner sales originate in the Dallas, Houston, Memphis, New Orleans, Tulsa and Oklahoma City areas.

So far station wagons have accounted for the fewest air conditioner sales among closed body styles (excluding convertibles). Only about 4 per cent of 1959's record run of wagons were factory equipped with the cooling units.

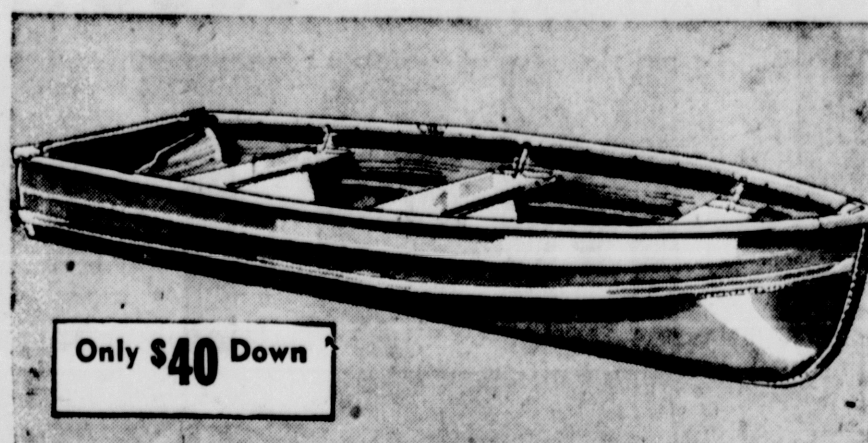

Installation on convertibles is not unheard of. One enthusiastic supporter of such is Jack Wolfgram, general manager of the Oldsmobile division of General Motors, who equipped his convertible with an air conditioner.

Many factory-installed air conditioner units are combination heating and cooling devices. This reduces the overall cost since the units average about $395 installed against $100 or more for a large, fresh air heater.

You Think You Have Car Woes!

By CHARLES MAHER
CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand — Get the average American talking about the cost of owning and operating his Guzzler 8, and you've got a better than average chance of having your ears bombarded like bongo drums.

But, if it's that bad now, consider the driver's agony if he had to buy a second car and kept running into ads like this:

"1950 Studebaker, Splendid appearance, good motor, $3,375."

Or this: "1938 Chev., coupe... $930."

Or this: "1956 Ford Customline, 37,000 (miles), $3,750."

Although people here might like to think so, these ads aren't gags. They were taken out of the Christchurch Star, intact, except that prices were converted from New Zealand pounds to United States dollars.

buy a fancy new model of the so-called low-priced three American cars, it would cost, about $6,000. If he could get it. Which, because of import restrictions, he couldn't.

Bill Cockram, who runs Cockram's Car Sales, Ltd., explains the reason for the incredible figures:

"The last (national) budget pushed prices up. We had a 20 per cent sales tax on cars previously. Now another 20 per cent has been added. That's not the whole tax because we also have a duty. On English cars it's 15 per cent. On American and European up to 50 per cent."

"We're not breaking our necks to buy American cars because the market is slowing down. The last budget put the price of petrol up a shilling a gallon. It used to be three and two (about 45 cents) a gallon. Now it's four and two (about 60 cents)."

With gasoline selling at these rates, Cockram says, people can get terribly fond of little cars.

BUT WHY all the taxes and duties?

"Well," Cockram says, "the monetary interest of the government covers the whole situation. The dairy and wool industries are down, so national income has dropped considerably. We had a change in government last year (when the Labor party took over) and the government has taken pretty drastic steps to balance our overseas budget. It looks as though we'll have very heavy restrictions on cars until the overseas funds are built up again."

New Zealand — population around 2½ million — has been importing some 40,000 cars a year. The number is not large but the nation's total automobile population is high. Cockram estimates there is one car for every three or four persons.

One reason there can be a lot of cars around, while imports are rather slow, is that New Zealanders treat their cars like mechanized deities. When a man buys a new car here, it's not just an occasion. It's an event — involving the solemnity, if not quite the finality, of marriage.

MANY OF our business executives may change cars each two or three years," Cockram says. "A private man in a fairly good position, like a lawyer, might change every five or six years. But I know a few people who are driving 1925 models — and have had them since new."

Even though many people shy away from them because of their relatively poor gas mileage, used American cars still draw unbelievable prices here.

A 1950 Ford, Cockram says, would bring between $1,650 and $1,800. For a 1953 Chevrolet, you might get between $2,400 and $2,550; for a 1955 Plymouth, between $4,200 and $4,500; for a 1958 Ford, between $4,800 and $5,100.

If you want to buy a new car here, you can't always just walk in, hand over the money and drive away.

"On the real popular models," Cockram says, "there has been a waiting list. You might wait some three or four years." Other makes, not quite so popular but quite well known, can be bought right off the floor at some times. Other times there might be a wait of two or three months.

Station Wagons Claim Bigger Part Of Market

DETROIT — The time is fast approaching when one of every five cars built in the United States will be a station wagon.

And there is no sign that the trend is going anywhere but up. Even the advent of the American smaller cars this year should not slow the rise because two of the three — Ford's Falcon and Chevrolet's Corvair — have wagons coming.

The two other established compact cars — Rambler and Studebaker-Packard's Lark — are expanding their wagon line this year.

One Studebaker - Packard official says he feels one of his company's major mistakes in 1959 was its failure to build a full line of station wagons. The Lark offered a two-door model but no four-door. This has been changed.

Rambler for 1960 offers what it calls the industry's only five-door station wagon. The rear tailgate has been changed into a door of the type used on panel delivery trucks. This provides easier entry and exit for passengers using the third seat at the rear.

Station wagons have been around since 1902, but they really came into their own in the 1950s.

The early wagons were just about what the name implies — wooden boxes on wheels. Ford brought the wagon up to date in 1929 when it started limited production of bodies at a plant in Michigan's Upper Peninsula forests. Ford continued to use some wood, mainly for trim, through 1951.

The other makers switched to steel slightly earlier and the percentage of sales began to rise. In 1950 station wagon sales accounted for only two per cent of the industry's total. By 1955 the percentage had jumped to 9.5. Unofficial estimates for 1959 place the figure at around 18 per cent.

From specialized vehicles used mainly for transporting guests from railroad stations to resort hotels, the station wagons have progressed to multi-purpose family and business cars.

The population exodus from the cities to the suburbs brought about part of the sharp rise in sales. Suburban families found it necessary to haul lumber for do-it-yourself projects; take the kids to Boy Scout and Girl Scout meetings; to Little League baseball games and to the cottage for the weekend.

For all of these uses more and more families found the wagons the answer. Not only did they provide the utility of carrying space, but they were socially acceptable at the country club and at church.

The four-door design has proved the most popular and more and more lines are offering three seats in 1960. The three-seat wagon is advertised as a nine-passenger vehicle. More often than not the third seat faces the rear.

The rear seating development has brought electrically controlled back windows, so that the kids can't fall out. And this year at least one make offers electric locks for the rear door, controlled by the driver.

Air conditioning is being adapted to the wagons although sales so far have been slow. Early cooling units were not big enough to work successfully in the rear end. One maker now adds a small booster unit in the ceiling and claims excellent results.

Styling has played an important part in the station wagon boom and the stylists delight in designing futuristic versions.

Spurt In Sale Of Cars Due To Continue In '60

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press
Automotive Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The year 1959 was one of financial revival in the automobile industry. The five car manufacturers bounced back fast from recession days. Red ink turned to black for Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard. The black ink got blacker for General Motors, Ford and American Motors.

The turnaround assumed spectacular proportions at Studebaker where a loss of 13 million dollars in the first six months of 1958 turned into a 12 million dollar profit in the first six months of 1959.

Chrysler, too, jumped back to the profit side of the ledger in a hurry. After losing almost 34 million dollars in 1958 the company showed a net profit of more than 15 million in the first three months of 1959 and a six month profit of 58 million dollars.

CHRYSLER dipped back into the red briefly in the third quarter because of unusually heavy outlays during the model change-over period and a longer than average shutdown, occasioned by a switch in body construction methods. But indicated profits for the year still were in the neighborhood of $6.50 a share.

Studebaker talked of an annual profit of some 20 million dollars. American Motors, on a fiscal year starting Oct. 1, earned almost 50 million dollars in its first nine months against 14 1/2 million in the comparable period in the 1958 fiscal year.

And in July American declared its first cash dividend — 80 cents a share. On the New York stock exchange American Motors was a spectacular performer, zooming to a high of $62.75 by the end of September from a year's low of $25.50 per share. And this was the stock that Louis Wolfson, always regarded as a shrewd stock operator, disposed of at less than $15 a share only a year ago.

Ford Motor Co.'s rebound was every bit as sensational in the profit columns as the smaller companies. In the first six months of 1959 Ford earned only a little over 16 million dollars, with a loss of more than 13 1/2 million in the second quarter.

BUT IN the first six months of 1959 the profit skyrocketed to a shade under 286 million dollars. To the individual shareholder this was the difference — earning of 29 cents a share in the first half of 1959; earning of $5.22 a share in the first half of 1959.

General Motors, by far the biggest of the corporations, also made a lot more money but because of its size the growth was not as spectacular as the other automakers.

GM made 590 million dollars in the first half of 1959 against 334 million in the first half of 1958. Its overseas operations established sales records. Total dollar sales of GM products in the second quarter of 1959 reached a level bettered only in the record year of 1955.

Car sales, of course, hold the key to the rise and fall of these five companies. All are looking forward to boom times in 1960.

Executives of each firm have pointed to the growing national income, industrial output and population that can be expected in the next decade.

And they have confidently predicted an expanding market for their products. They suggest this market will come from the swelling tide of children who will reach car-buying age in the next five years. This is the record postwar baby crop of 1947.

And the marketing experts of the auto companies also look happily at the growing number of multi-car families — now some 13 per cent of all families.

It was with these groups in mind that the Big Three — Ford, GM and Chrysler — brought their compact cars to market in the fall of 1959.

Buzzard 1200 A. D.
FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Workers laying a sewer pipe dug up a skeleton in the backyard of a Flagstaff residence. The excitement died down when the Museum of Northern Arizona identified the bones as those of an Indian, buried about 1200 A. D.

Buzzard Hazard
PALMYRA, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Carl Smith, 60, suffered a deep cut on her forehead when a buzzard crashed into and shattered the windshield of a car driven by her husband. The husband, uninjured, kept control of the car. The buzzard was decapitated.

Jefferson's Rating
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — How would you rate Thomas Jefferson among U. S. Presidents? Adlai Stevenson, visiting Jefferson's home here, says either No. 1 or No. 2, with possibly Lincoln in the top spot. Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt he placed next in order.

Incorporated Hamlet Has Name—What Else?

DELLVIEW, N. C. (AP) — This hamlet, incorporated in 1925, has no bonded debt, no taxes, no water bills. Police Chief Tom Dellinger never has made an arrest. His wife Ola is town clerk, but she has nothing to do.

Dellview never has had any births or deaths. Its 1960 population was four, a decrease of three from 1950 because that many members of the town's two families moved away.

Why did Dellview ever bother with incorporation? Tom Dellinger explains that his late brother David, a member of the State House of Representatives, put it through the Legislature because the family had a poultry farm and wanted to put up legal barriers against marauding stray dogs.

It Started As Gag But Then Comes True

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (AP) — A set of phony orders, drafted as a gag, convinced a Navy man assigned to the Military Air Transport Service that he was being reassigned to Antarctica.

Before he learned it was a joke, Chief Journalist Leo G. Loftus spent a week assembling cold weather gear.

Then his real orders arrived—assigning him to the Navy's Antarctic task force.

Judge Has Short Time To Celebrate Birthday

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — A full day in court left Acting County Judge Phillip J. Weiss of Batavia about 40 minutes to celebrate his 51st birthday.

He was busy all day with summations of counsel in a manslaughter trial, charged the jury, then had to wait until 11:20 p. m. to hear the jury's verdict.

Exporters Evade Tax

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Officials say Mexican exporters have been evading 28 per cent of the export duty on pure lead by shipping it abroad as semi-finished products such as lamp bases and wheels.

There were 49 executions under civil law in the United States in 1959.

Compacts Arrive On Market After 'Normal Time' Period

DETROIT (AP) — The Corvair, Falcon and Valiant are arriving on the market right on schedule.

This means they were built to the normal Detroit lead time of some 2 1/2 to 3 years and were not the result of crash programs.

The average time from drawing board to assembly line in Detroit runs the best part of three years due to the many technical problems that must be solved before an automobile is ready for mass production.

In early 1957 General Motors, Ford and Chrysler decided the time had come to build smaller economy cars.

They envisioned machines with a lower initial cost and good gas mileage, bigger than the small imports but smaller than standard Fords, Chevrolets or Plymouths.

"We wanted new cars," says one Chrysler official, "not just a little Plymouth." And the same attitude was shared by the other two big makers.

Even when Detroit starts to work in earnest on a new car, signals can be changed. It has happened before.

One small General Motors' car which was designed for American buyers was scrapped for the domestic market but turned up in Australia as GM's Holden.

Ford has a similar experience and converted its model to the Vedette of Ford of France. Chrysler built several prototypes of a small car in 1949 before junking its program.

The Big Three like to pride themselves on keeping ever alert to the market trends and constantly dabble in research projects.

Usually such experimental projects can be converted to production if market surveys indicate the time is ripe.

Mail Goes Through

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Postman C. W. Barnett went into the gutter to get his mail. A car knocked over a mailbox and a fireplug and the scattered mail floated off in the man-made flood. He retrieved the soggy letters and delivered them to the postoffice.

In 1800 there were only a few theaters in the United States and about 150 actors. By 1885 the country had 5,000 playhouses and more than 50,000 players.

This figure will be beaten for the first time this year and Detroit has its smaller cars ready.

Safety Responsibility Laws Now Exist In All 50 States

By The Associated Press

Safety responsibility laws, designed to protect the public against the economic distress caused by the irresponsible motorist, are now in force in all 50 states.

These laws also promote highway safety by making it easier to remove the driving privileges of persons who habitually cause accidents.

Financial responsibility laws are effective in 47 states and the District of Columbia. The other three—

Massachusetts, New York and North Carolina—have compulsory insurance laws.

Financial responsibility laws vary from state to state. But virtually all require security from uninsured motorists involved in accidents, regardless of whether they were at fault.

The amount of security depends on the extent of damage or injury. Failure to deposit that amount results in suspension of license and registration.

These laws also require a motorist who has been convicted of who has failed to satisfy a judgment to maintain insurance in the future.

The first financial responsibility law was enacted in 1925 by Connecticut. The trend to strengthen the statutes began in 1937 when New Hampshire enacted a law which applied immediately after an accident occurred without the necessity of the recovery of a judgment.

Only two states, Connecticut and Virginia, require bodily injury limits exceeding $10,000 for one person and $20,000 for one accident. Twenty-one states require limits of $5,000 and $10,000. Three states, Maryland, Connecticut and Rhode Island, require minors to give evidence of financial responsibility before they can obtain a driver's license.

How Can I By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I improve my complexion?

A. A glass of water, into which half a lemon has been squeezed, drunk every morning upon rising, is very helpful. Also form the habit of drinking water throughout the day. This will carry off poisons that otherwise mar the complexion. Water that is cool, not iced water, is the best.

Q. How can I remove iodine stains?

A. Try taking finely shaved white soap, moistened with cold water, spreading it over the stain, and allowing it to remain for a few hours.

Q. How can I clean gold and silver jewelry?

A. Gold and silver articles can be cleaned very nicely by dipping a wet cloth into cigar ashes and scouring.

Iceland has many geysers and boiling springs.

Safety Markers Are Tested Along Lonely Highway

HASTINGS, Minn. (AP)—A 3½-mile roadway marked "U.S. Highway 00," starts and ends in a cornfield and carries no normal traffic. Yet the road plays an important part in traffic safety.

Along the road, which is closed to the public, are 94 signs demonstrating various types of reflective sheeting used in highway signs.

Every year hundreds of traffic engineers and highway officials visit the road and take back to the communities what they believe will be the best type signs.

The road was built in 1951 by the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., to test nighttime visibility of various types of reflective sheeting used in highway signs.

It was Benjamin Franklin, in a letter to M. Leroy in 1789, who wrote: "But in this world nothing is sure but death and taxes."

One Out Of Five Drivers In Need Of Vision Care

By DR. P. N. DeVERE
American Optometric Assn.

One out of five drivers, even those with glasses, has at least one vision defect which affects safe driving. And millions of these motorists are unaware of their shortcomings.

This condition was indicated by a recent test with screening instruments of the vision of 3,000 drivers in 25 states conducted under the auspices of the American Optometric Assn. (AOA).

All of these drivers — with a very few exceptions (less than 1-10 of 1 per cent — can have their vision corrected to enable them to be safe drivers.

Studies by the AOA Motorists Vision and Highway Safety Committee show the following vision skills vitally affect safe driving:

Distance Acuity: The ability to focus and see clearly with each eye separately and both eyes together, particularly at a distance of many feet or yards. Probably the most important vision skill for driving, it is essential for seeing danger, reading road signs in time and for general adaptation to driving conditions.

DEPTH PERCEPTION: Ability to correctly judge distances between yourself and another object, especially when both are in motion. This is essential for passing other cars in the face of oncoming traffic and for maneuvering from one lane to another among moving vehicles. Deficiency in this skill is one of the most common defects found among drivers.

Field of Vision: Ability to see over a large area without moving either your eyes or your head, sometimes called "looking out of the corners of your eyes." This, of course, is needed to detect crossroad traffic, pedestrians, to check traffic at your rear through mirrors and to get the general driving picture.

Muscle Balance: Ability to point your eyes simultaneously with ease at a given object. This is essential for good two-eyed vision, acuity, depth perception and field of vision.

Night Vision Skills: The ability to see under low illumination beyond the range of your own headlights, ability to see against glare of oncoming headlights, and the ability to recover quickly from glare afterwards. Night vision degrades rapidly after 40 years of age. Inadequate night vision largely accounts for the greater number of accidents at night.

To be a safe driver, you must use your vision skills to develop safe driving habits, and you must compensate for vision defects. You must also remember it takes time to see, and then it takes time to act.

FOR INSTANCE, if you are average in reaction time, it takes you a little over 4-10 of a second to move your foot from the accelerator to the brake after you have seen a red light.

This is one of the simplest reactions in driving. And if you are average, you can perceive an unexpected obstacle only one-half as far away as you can see an expected one.

When you apply your brakes at 70 m.p.h., your car will go seven times the distance it takes to stop at 25 m.p.h.

That's why you need good visual acuity to read signs in time to stop. With 20-50 vision, you won't see the standard five-inch letters on a stop sign until you are 90 feet away. At 60 m.p.h. you would be 227 feet beyond the sign before you could stop.

On a dark highway, clear vision is limited to the effective length of your car's headlight beams, less than 300 feet.

Night vision degrades with age, so if you're over 40 you probably need to compensate by slowing down. Tests show that best glare resistance is found in 20 to 30-year-old drivers.

Along with other groups, the American Optometric Assn. has been calling attention to the need for states to pass legislation that would require all drivers to undergo periodic re-examination of vision to make our highways safer.

Car Should Have Good Grip When Battling Snow And Ice

If you live in an area where snow or ice covers the ground part of the winter, you're naturally concerned about having your car in the safest possible driving condition. Don't overlook special winter tires and chains.

There are three kinds of winter tires: those which have abrasive materials imbedded in the surface; tires with deep treads designed to give good traction in snow or mud, and tires that combine the features of both.

Which should you choose? The National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards rates them this way:

Winterized mud-and-snow tires perform about 25 per cent better than regular tires. Mud-and-snow tires offer 13 per cent better traction than regular tires, and winterized tires with abrasive materials imbedded in the surface give an improvement of about 8 per cent.

However, the Safety Council says the best snow or mud driving is guaranteed with the use of chains which, while cumbersome, noisy and rough riding, enable faster stops and quicker starts.

Regular chains improve traction by 231 per cent on the ice, while reinforced chains increase traction by 409 per cent. On packed snow, reinforced chains improve traction by 313 per cent.

Regular chains are made of round steel links, while the reinforced chain links have projecting claws or teeth. The reinforced chains are more costly than regular ones, but last longer.

Kite Flying Banned In Helicopter Area

ST. LOUIS (U) — Louis J. Christen Jr. complained a helicopter severed the string leading to a kite he was flying from a tennis courts area of Forest Park.

"What action does one take to avenge such an unkind deed?" Christen demanded. The kite-flyer lost another round when the matter was submitted to Ian M. Crowder, acting park commissioner.

Crowder noted the tennis courts had been authorized as a mid-town landing area for helicopters and said he would ban kite flying in the area.

Many Requests Made But This Is Toughest

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (U) — The Wyoming State Agriculture Dept. gets countless requests for samples of Wyoming soil, water or seeds.

These it can handle. But Robert Robinson of Roberts, Mont., has come up with a stickler.

He asked for two tail feathers from a western meadowlark.

When the Oklahoma rush for free prairie land took place on April 22, 1889, about 10,000 "Sooners" claimed land between noon and sundown.

Bigger, Better Is Prediction On Auto Show

The auto show to be held this weekend at the Skyview Theater in Calcutta is expected to be "bigger and better" than last year, according to Arnold Headlund and Darrell Serafy, co-chairmen of the Junior Chamber of Commerce project.

Headlund said the show definitely will have more new cars and models on display. The show this year has been titled a "Motorama" because of the expansion of products. Anything powered by a gasoline engine is eligible for display. The show will be open from noon to 10 p. m. Saturday and from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Sunday.

A PARADE through the downtown business district Saturday morning at 11 will mark the opening. At least a dozen antique cars, a German Band from East Liverpool High School and the Barber Curls Quartet will be featured. The Jaycees are conducting the affair to raise funds for youth activities. The group annually sponsors a Teenage Road-E-O, junior golf tournament, post-prom party and several other events designed especially for the district youth.

All displays will be in place by opening time, Headlund stated. Besides the new car models, sports and foreign cars will be shown along with lawn mowers and various types of accessories, boats, outboard motors and other garden equipment.

All the old cars in the parade will be taken to the theater for display. They are being provided by the Tri-State Antique Auto Club.

Various types of special cars also are being brought in for display. Among them is an Auburn-Duesenberg Speedster owned by a Deerfield man. This is a "one-of-a-kind" car which was specially built. It features a supercharged, straight eight motor which can develop 410 horsepower.

A May Bach, a German staff car, also will be shown. It has a V-12 engine, 30 - gallon gasoline tank, sliding roof and five forward gears. Headlund said the car is owned by John Pfeister of North Lima.

SUNDAY'S program will open at 9 a. m. It also will feature several custom, classic, antique, vintage and sports car displays.

Two hundred invitations have been mailed to enthusiasts to enter their vehicles in judging competition. Trophies will be given.

The public will be asked to vote on the car it likes the best.

Serafy said parking will be provided at the Potters Lumber Co. lot adjoining the theater. He said Civilian Defense Police will direct the traffic. The CD also will provide a 24-hour guard on all the merchandise displayed.

Serafy also pointed out that many of the dealers are planning special displays of their own. These include a cut-away engine and special features found on new models.

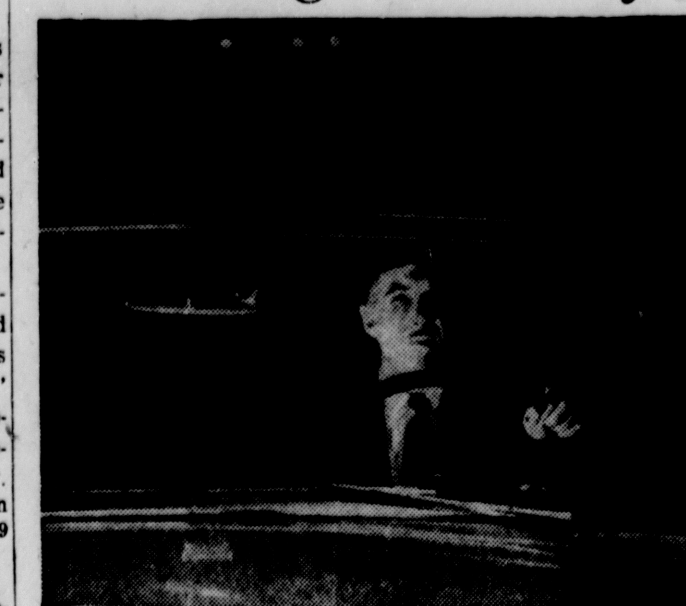

Judging of the cars will begin Sunday at noon. The judging form to be used will be that adopted by the Classic Car Club of America, Inc. The judging will be based on two phases — the mechanical condition and maintenance and the outward appearance. From one to five points are given for ratings of poor, fair, good, very good and excellent.

Eleven points on the mechanical condition are considered. They are the tires, lights, horn, glass or side curtains, wiring, engine start and idle, brakes, windshield wipers, exhaust system, cooling system and authenticity.

On appearance, points are given for the engine room, undercarriage, body, roof or top, plating, paint, upholstery, instruments, dash and interior trim, and degree of authenticity of restoration.

As the old cars arrive, they will be given a designated place to park. Each will be given a metal plaque to attach to the dash.

Turnpike Prove Safer According To Surveys

TURNPIKE FATIGUE. This driver is a candidate for turnpike fatigue, brought on by constant peering down the road ahead, monotonous engine drone and lack of activity. To ward off fatigue, take frequent rest stops, play radio, chew gum, hum.

CHICAGO (U) — Take the turnpike!

That's the National Safety Council's formula for safety when you travel.

"It's a formula supported by solid facts — facts that add up to virtual assurance of a safer trip for motorists who drive the superhighways," the Council says.

The super highways were dramatically safer during the last Memorial Day holiday. Though a record 310 persons lost their lives on highways throughout the nation, on 16 major turnpikes — busy with nearly five million motor vehicles — not one person was killed.

Even more significant than the Memorial Day showing is the record for all of 1958, the Council says. For every 100 million miles of travel on normal highways, 7.3 deaths were recorded.

But on turnpikes, the rate was only 2.8.

"In other words," the Council says, "it's nearly three times safer to take the turnpikes when you travel."

In addition, the Council estimates that the controlled-access, modern-design highways are saving 700 lives annually.

But there are hazards in turnpike driving, the Council points out.

"Super highways," it says, "were made for speed — but drivers must learn to use it carefully. Sensible speed is the key to safe super highway driving. "Once motorists are aware of the hazards, safe, comfortable, fast super highway travel is easy to learn."

Some of the major hazards of turnpike travel:

1. — A car in poor condition is ripe for an accident under the stress and strain of turnpike driving.
2. — The higher speeds of cars on turnpikes leave less time to stop safely.
3. — Drivers can get fatigued easily from sustained speed, engine drone, tire hum, driver inactivity.

Marriage Ruled Legal By Long Distance Call

RICHMOND, Va. — Attorney General Albertis Harrison says marriage by long distance telephone apparently is legal even when the bride and groom are separated by the Atlantic Ocean.

His opinion was given to Del. Garnett Moore of Pulaski who asked in behalf of an airman whose marriage to a French girl by telephone was ruled illegal by the Air Force. Harrison found no statutory requirement that the bride and groom be in the presence of each other.

Clean Car Will Pay Off

A little elbow grease goes a long way in keeping your automobile's new-car look. But the importance of keeping your car clean goes beyond mere appearance sake.

When it comes time to trade the car in, how clean you kept it will have an effect on the trade-in price.

Weekly washing, both inside and outside, helps prevent grime from scratching and damaging paint or enamel, upholstery and rubber mats.

A clean car rides better on less fuel, many automotive engineers contend.

Clean windows, headlights, parking lights and reflectors insure better visibility and safer driving.

And it's more pleasant to travel in a freshly cleaned auto.

IN CLEANING your car, first use a firm whisk broom to remove any gravel or pebbles from the floor, then vacuum the upholstery and floor mats.

If the car ceiling is plastic, wash with a suds-and-water solution, starting in the left rear corner and going forward using circular or back-and-forth motions. Rinse with a sponge or cloth and clear water, and wipe dry with a clean cloth.

An old toothbrush is good for scrubbing glass or plastic grooves. The suds-rinse-and-dry method can be used on all plastic upholstery, door panels and arm rests and most stains will come off under the thick suds.

Fabric upholstery can be shampooed with "dry" suds. Put a generous handful of soap or detergent in a bowl with a little water and use an egg beater to whip up a stiff lather resembling meringue. Dip a cloth, sponge, or soft brush into the lather and shampoo the upholstery surface, a small section at a time, with brisk rotary motion.

KEEP THE suds fluffy to hold the loosened soil, and scrape off dirty suds with spatula or table knife. Discard old suds. Wipe the area with a damp sponge wrung out of clear water. Repeat until the entire surface is clean.

Add a tablespoon of ammonia to the suds to restore the color of dulled fabric.

Use lukewarm suds to wash all windows and rinse with clear water. Add a pinch of bluing or a few drops of kerosene to provide extra sparkle to glass.

Start washing the exterior of the car from the top and work down. A long-handled hose attachment with a rotating brush is handy, as is a big overstuffed foam rubber carwashing mitt.

Let the car dry 30 to 45 minutes before attempting to polish it.

Drive For Safety In Cars Goes On

DETROIT — The automakers' position on traffic safety was stated very simply by one executive when he said: "We want very much to keep our customers alive and driving."

Despite the fact that everybody is in favor of it, safety remains one of the most highly controversial aspects of the automobile business.

How safe are today's cars? Are designers and engineers doing everything possible to make them safer? What can the manufacturers do about the rising toll of death and injury on the nation's streets and highways?

These are questions to which there are no simple answers.

ON EVERY side the industry professes extreme concern about safety. Charles A. Chayne, vice president of General Motors in charge of engineering staff, recently wrote: "The first objective of an automobile manufacturer might be said to be to build a car that will move. His second objective is to build one that will move safely. All other objectives are subordinate."

Chayne put the general industry viewpoint this way: "The driver is, of course, by far the most critical element in the whole picture. No matter how easy we may make it for him to drive safely, we cannot make cars 'driverproof' any more than highway engineers can achieve this theoretical objective in the roads they build."

"Traffic accident records indicate clearly that driver errors are responsible for the overwhelming majority of traffic accidents. Even in the small percentage of cases where vehicle malfunctioning is involved, it is almost always traceable to the human error of improper maintenance."

THE 1960 model cars carry few if any completely new safety devices. All of the companies say they are constantly refining what they have. More non-glare dashboards are offered. Sealed beam headlights have been improved. Visibility has been increased.

Dr. Andrew A. Kucher, Ford vice president for engineering and research, says, "The design of safety features is constantly being refined as accident experience more accurately pinpoints how injuries are inflicted."

"Considerable freedom must be extended to research and design to allow exploration of new solutions to the problem. The danger of formalizing rigid specifications and design criteria while potential improvements are still being evolved is a substantial one."

In this Kucher referred to attempts to pass federal legislation requiring certain safety standards on autos.

Most significant of the recent safety advances has been the use in cars of seat belts, deep-dish steering wheels, safety door locks and padded dashboards.

ON MANY cars some or all of these are optional equipment and the public has made no great effort to buy them. But the safety locks and steering wheel design are almost universal on American cars.

Kucher suggests that any spectacular progress in accident prevention will require at least four evolutionary steps:

1. — Extension of human sens-

Cooling Setup Key To Engine

Your automobile's performance is only as good as the operation of the engine's cooling system.

An overheated engine upsets lubrication, compression, carburetion and ignition — which with cooling are the processes of engine operation.

Pistons, bearings or other moving parts may become stuck or damaged; power may be cut and more fuel burned as the engine is forced to work harder.

Today's cars make it even more important that the engine cooling system be given proper maintenance.

Engine horsepower has increased from an average of 110.3 hp in 1946 to 263.4 hp in 1958 — an increase in horsepower of 240 per cent in 12 years.

Engine speeds have increased an average of 820 revolutions per minute at high speeds from 1952-1958, with the average in 1958 4,600 rpm.

New car design has caused free space under the hood to be cut to meet the demand for lower, sleeker silhouettes. And power drive, air conditioning, bigger carburetors, power steering have cut down even further on free space in the engine compartments, which absorbed some of the heat.

The engine cooling system cools the automatic transmission fluid in most modern cars.

Today's cooling systems generally have the same or even less capacity than those in 1952. Faster circulation of the water attempts to handle the excess heat.

Engineers recommend that care of the cooling system be turned over to an experienced service dealer, who knows your car, the demands you place on it, and is equipped to give you peak service.

Movie Makers Edging Tourists As Spenders

MEXICO CITY — Movie makers are edging out tourists as big spenders in resort centers.

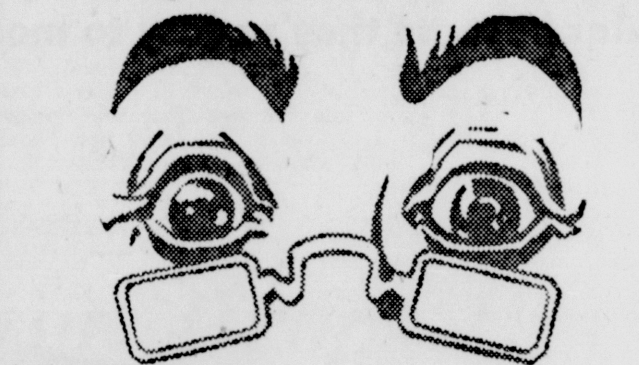

Tourism is Mexico's second largest source of dollar income, (behind cotton) but American film companies producing in Cuernavaca and other centers are said to be bringing in more.

Two companies filming in the Cuernavaca area ("The Magnificent Seven" and "Pepe") brought seven million pesos in just a few weeks this year.

Copter Construction

COLUMBUS, Ohio — When the time came to replace the 18-year-old beacon light atop Lockbourne Air Force Base's 169-foot water tower, the contractor did it in appropriate aerial fashion. The 400-pound beacon was lifted into place by helicopter.

The huge guns captured at the Japanese Naval Base at Kure were cut into short lengths and brought to California for remelting and use as scrap metal.

Little Hope Seen For Dip In Car Insurance Rates

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Like the tail of a kite, the cost of automobile liability insurance is following the cost of living upward.

And there is little hope that the trend will reverse itself.

J. Dewey Dorsett, general manager of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, says the principal factors contributing to rising rates are the ever-increasing number of accidents, the general economic inflation, skyrocketing claim costs and rising jury awards.

"The question of why rates are where they are and where they are going, begins with traffic accidents," says Dorsett. "The whole enormity of the traffic accident tragedy is untold, and up to now safety organizations have been arriving at conflicting toll approximations."

INSURANCE companies estimate there are between 11 and 12 million traffic accidents — fatal, personal injury and property damage combined — each year. The total, says Dorsett, may be more like 12 to 13 million.

Estimates of the economic loss from traffic accidents range from $1.3 billion dollars a year to more than $7 1/2 billion.

"Contrary to what many people have been led to believe," Dorsett says, "insurance companies have been suffering heavy underwriting losses in automobile liability insurance." Since the end of World War II, he says, the stock casualty companies — which write a majority of the business — have lost 600 million dollars.

Department of Labor statistics show that hospital rates have increased 313 per cent over the 1935-39 average, medical care has gone up 112 per cent, the price of new cars 147 per cent, and auto repair costs 95 per cent.

During that same period, Dorsett adds, auto liability insurance rates have gone up 86 per cent.

A good example of why insurance rates have climbed is the way car repair costs have increased.

IN MOST instances, insurance men say, it's cheaper to replace damaged parts than to repair them. This is because skilled labor in this field has increased from $3 an hour in 1948 to $4.50 to $5 an hour today.

Consider the Chevrolet. In 1948 you could replace the windshield for $26.50. Today it costs $168.50. In '48 it cost $50.15 to replace a radiator; today the cost is $95.55. The cost of a front bumper has increased from $12.60 to $35, a head lamp from $15.10 to $26.80, a hood from $27.10 to $69.55, a front fender from $28 to $72.10, and a door from $56.75 to $105.35.

"The insurance companies have spent millions of dollars trying to persuade the public to drive more carefully," Dorsett says.

"Only the state government can make people drive more carefully. Only state governments can enact adequate motor vehicle laws. Only the state governments can put enough policemen on the streets and highways to assure full and impartial law enforcement. Only the state governments can insist that the courts punish drivers according to the severity of their crimes."

"Only the state governments can stop ticket-fixing and put off the road those who will not obey the law. Only the state governments can maintain adequate reporting systems that will show the true enormity of our traffic accident scandal and thus arouse the people to demand corrections in words and tones that will be heard and heeded by those who hold high public offices."

First Year Of Price Label Highlighted By Education

By JACK ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first year of the law requiring price labels on new automobiles has been a shakedown rather than a crackdown period.

Most of the emphasis has been on educating the automotive industry, dealers and the buying public on what the law requires.

However, there have been prosecutions for removal or alteration of the manufacturer's price label by dealers. Among the half-dozen cases reported to the Justice Department, the fines have ranged from $250 to the maximum $1,000.

There is no report of any jail term having been imposed, although the law provides for imprisonment up to one year, in addition to the fines, at the discretion of the trial judge.

James P. O'Brien of the Justice Department says the educational approach for the first year of the law was felt essential because the law is the only one of its kind, representing a new concept by Congress in the regulation of interstate commerce.

Policing of the law the first year has been undertaken almost entirely on the basis of formal complaints of alleged violations, with the general public accounting for about 99 per cent of these.

There are indications the complaints have been numerous, but it also has been established that many of these stemmed from misunderstanding of what the law actually says.

The law, made effective Oct. 1, 1958, requires domestic car manufacturers and distributors of imported cars to affix a label to the car windshield showing the suggested retail price of the car, suggested retail price of accessories or optional equipment, where the car was assembled, the dealer to whom it was sold, how it was transported to his place of business, and how much the transportation cost.

The purpose of the statute was to prevent so-called "price packing" on new cars under which the cost to the ultimate buyer was inflated through high-priced "extras."

The Justice Department never wanted this law on the books, for several reasons.

While it was being considered last year, the department was in process of launching a series of successful prosecutions of alleged "price packing" agreements among dealers in major metropolitan areas, and felt there was sufficient existing law to handle the matter.

Also, Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence E. Walsh expressed concern to a House committee that "price suggesting" by the manufacturer appeared to be a little too close kin to "price fixing," forbidden by the anti-trust laws. Department officials report the Antitrust Division is keeping a constant watch on this factor.

And finally, the department took the position that if any price labeling was authorized, the data should include the information "most useful to the purchaser" — that is, how much the dealer paid the manufacturer for the car and the optional equipment.

However, Congress adopted none of the department's suggestions.

The average life of shock absorbers, some studies have shown, is about 20,000 miles, usually reached in 18 to 24 months of driving.

Shock absorbers work with the automobile's spring system and are designed to smooth out the ride. The actual shock absorber mechanism consists of a piston movement in an oil cylinder with springs, valves and controls all enclosed in a steel jacket.

Worn shock absorbers can cause:

- Wheel shimmy, that could strain or snap springs.
- Sudden bounces when the car hits a bump, causing the driver or passengers to hit the roof.
- Uncontrolled wheel bounce, with wheels actually leaving the ground, making steering difficult and often resulting in loss of driver control.
- Increased tire wear caused by tires absorbing extra shocks.
- Tendency to skid on curves.

Add strips of onion, green pepper and ham to a plain omelet and you have the filling for a western sandwich. Brown the vegetables and meat slightly before adding to the eggs. Serve the sandwich with chili sauce or cat-chup.

Is Riding Rough? It May Be Your Shock Absorbers

By The Associated Press

Have you had your automobile's shock absorbers checked in the last 10,000 miles?

If not, that may be the answer to why the old buggy isn't riding as smoothly as it did only a few months back or why the latest set of tires just didn't seep to hold up.

They're Still Tires By Any Other Name

Perhaps nothing else on your car has so many names, or designations, as the tires.

Truck drivers call them "shoes." In rubber plants they're referred to as "beer barrels." Racing drivers call them "skins."

But you, as an automobile owner, are more concerned with their more common designations—"premium," "100-level," etc., which you will come up against whenever you shop for tires.

Here are common designations and their meanings:

Premium — the best of the tire line. Designed to offer maximum performance, trouble-free operation and blowout protection.

First-line — often called "100-level," generally equivalent in cost and quality of tires installed on new cars.

Second-line — sometimes called "90-level," a step below first-line tires. Some third-line tires are made, and usually are the least expensive and least durable.

Often tires are classified as "super" or "deluxe," when they may be second or third-line tires. The best precaution to take in this case is to check the tire's guarantee. As a general rule, the better the guarantee, the better grade the tire.

Moore was charged with five traffic violations.
